Borah, Not Pacified

Strawberries by Airplane

Trouble for Republicans

The Python's 6 Roosters

By Arthur Brisbane

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 23—In Washington, where this is written, Senator Borah has just demanded a special session of Congress after March 4, for "legitimate reasons."

He was not pacified by the shelving of the World Court.

Apparently he does not share the opinion of big business that "the country is safer after Congress goes home."

Strawberries were delivered in New York yesterday, picked in Florida 11 hours earlier. Dudley Reed flew in with 432 pints and the trip was profitable.

Fruit picked ripe in Florida, California, and on the Gulf Coast, will soon be distributed all over the United States through the air on the day it is picked. Refrigeration will not be necessary, the pilot going up high enough for refrigeration.

The fact that Robert H. Lucas, director of the Republican National Committee, did all he could, which was not much, to prevent the re-election of Senator Norris, has started fire works.

Some senators think that an important official of the Republican party should not spend Republican time or money trying to defeat a Republican candidate.

Mr. Lucas says that Norris should have been kept out and suggests that the Republican party should put him out, now that he is overwhelmingly elected.

Senator Norris, you must know, does his own thinking and even suggests that the people whose taxes built the Muscle Shoals power plant, should own the plant instead of turning it over to private power companies.

Senator Nye finds that the Republican National Committee guaranteed a bank loan made by Lucas to pay for a literary campaign against Senator Norris.

Respectable Republicanism will find it hard to explain that treacherous slush fund.

Senator Cutting of New Mexico, Republican, calls it "political thuggery."

Inhabitants of the New York and other zoological gardens will have a cheerful Christmas. The New York python, 25 feet long, will have six fat roosters on Christmas Day. He eats only once a month and swallows his roosters feathers and all.

The chimpanzees, orangoutangs and other big monkeys will each have two extra oranges. Caribou and elk will have the food they like best.

And any criminals locked up waiting to be executed will be asked, as usual, to write their own menu for the death morning. They may have anything they like, but usually order ham and eggs. Murderers have little imagination.

Something new in prohibition enforcement. Federal agents arrested a colored man headed away from shore in a rowboat. He confessed that he was rowing out to the 12-mile limit "to get some gin that is gin." He could not trust the gin of New York.

Recent alcoholic deaths testify as to the soundness of this judgment. But he was locked up in spite of his plea that if merely "wanting" good gin was made a crime, the prisons would be crowded.

Calvin Coolidge, recalling the landing of Pilgrim Fathers on the shore of his beloved New England 310 years ago, proudly reminds you that "the weakest of us have the protection of an irresistible government." He says that "our circumstances compel us to have faith. Our humility now requires cultivation."

Americans have never been conspicuous by being humble. But they may acquire humility with cotton and copper at 10 cents or lower, wheat receiving artificial oxygen treatment from the government, oil, and coal drugs in the market, and stocks so low there isn't much left for the bears to sell short.

The Pope in addition to all his other work is demonstrating the possibility of making a small territory independent of nationalities around it.

Recently he began construction of a miniature air field for the use of helicopter planes, going perpendicularly up and down.

A telegram from Vatican City yesterday announced work under way to provide the Pope's dominion with an independent water supply from deep wells.

BARONET'S BRIDE SURRENDERS TONIGHT

Mother Finds Child After Seven Year Search

WOMAN LIFER GIVEN PAROLE

OXFORD BRIDE NEAR ARREST IS BELIEF

Father of "Peer's" Bride Attacks Commitment as a "Rank Injustice" county officials received an unconfirmed report this afternoon that "Lady" Barbara Buffum Bramwell would surrender this evening at Worcester state hospital from which she escaped yesterday.

The Oxford bride of a bogus British baronet, committed after the fantasy of her marriage was exploded by disclosure that her husband was a ship's clerk, was reported in the hiding of a friend or relative near Webster.

TO SEE FATHER

Deputy Sheriff Arthur A. Keefe, who had the 27-year-old bride committed and who has been searching for her was quoted as saying he believed she girl was with her family. Later he denied making any such statement.

Dr. William A. Bryan, superintendent of the hospital, said he had no definite information regarding the girl's whereabouts but would not be surprised if she appeared at the hospital.

He said he had an appointment with James Buffum, the bride's father, for a conference at 5 p. m. and that he was hopeful of the outcome of this meeting.

Buffum himself put an entirely different aspect on the nature of this conference when he said he had retained counsel in an effort to obtain his daughter's clothing and jewelry from the hospital.

He denied that he knew where she was or that any member of the family knew where she was.

"If I were her I would go to Canada and let them try to get me back from there," the father said, breaking a silence he has maintained since the wedding that fooled 200 guests a week ago yesterday.

DAUGHTER SANE

"My daughter is sane. I will admit that she is visionary, but she is sane and shouldn't be in the hospital.

"I have been placed in a wrong light. The commitment was talked into me and in my excitement I perhaps agreed.

"I most certainly am not going to take her back. If my daughter is found and returned to the hospital I shall make every effort to gain her immediate release."

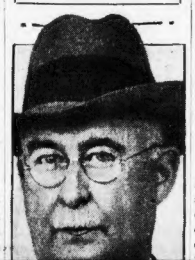
Resigns Office



DR. FRANCIS D. DONOGHUE resigned today as a member of the board of commissioners of school buildings.

DR. DONOGHUE QUITS BOARD

Dr. Francis D. Donoghue, of 864 Beacon st., resigned today as a member of the board of commissioners of school buildings of the city of Boston.

Internal friction in the board is understood to be the reason, although Dr. Donoghue said private practice demanded his time.

He submitted his resignation to Richard J. Lane, chairman of the board. He was appointed by Mayor Nichols in November, 1929, and his successor will be named by Mayor Curley.

His resignation follows a meeting yesterday, when the question of a chairman for the coming year was taken up. Stephen W. Sleeper, the so-called neutral member of the board, voted for Dr. Donoghue. This in effect gave him the chairmanship, but instead of accepting he refused and resigned.

It is reported that there was constant friction between Lane and Dr. Donoghue, and it is believed that the latter felt himself vindicated upon being accorded "the neutral member's vote this year.

MOTHER FINDS CHILD AFTER 7-YEAR HUNT

Baby Taken Away by Husband Is Located in Saugus by Private Detective

Mrs. Mary T. Tremblay, of 8 Madison ave., Wakefield, ended a seven year search for her daughter, Pauline, eight years old, today, when she found the child in a house on Auburn st., Saugus.

According to her story, her husband took Pauline when he left home seven years ago, and since then search by police has been unavailing.

Mrs. Tremblay recently obtained work as a housekeeper for a wealthy Wakefield resident, and interested him in her story. He employed hired private detectives who traced Tremblay to Worcester. He revealed where the missing Pauline was living.

Capt. John F. Swart of the Saugus police went to the Auburn st. home and found the child sleeping.

The woman with whom Pauline has been boarding for the past four years was told she had no legal claims on the child, and Mrs. Tremblay took the girl home with her.

100 PRISONERS FIGHT DEER ISLE FIRE

Flames Sweep "Gut House" and Destroy Costly Boat; Boston Aid Called

Fire of mysterious origin today destroyed Deer Island's new "Gut House," and with it a new $4000 motorboat and two dories.

Because of low water pressure and inadequate fire fighting apparatus, the flames gained such headway, despite the drive of wet, sticky snow, that it was impossible to halt their march.

"GAS" STORAGE SAVED

The two-story, wooden building which combined a guardhouse and boathouse on the Shirley Gut end of the island, across the gut from Point Shirley, was levelled within a hour after discovery of the fire.

Most of the fire fighters' efforts were devoted toward keeping the flames away from a gasoline pump and storage tank only a few feet from the burning building.

Two guards and two prisoners are supposed to be in the "Gut House" 24 hours a day, the prisoners rowing the dories back and forth between mainland and the island, and the guards watching the prisoners.

100 PRISONERS IN FIGHT

When the fire was discovered in the building, which is a considerable distance from the others, 100 prisoners and guards were rushed to the scene from the work barracks.

Help also was called from Boston and the fireboats poked down the harbor through the thick, murky storm.

By the time the firehoats reached there, however, the building and the three boats were in ashes.

Christmas Baskets Bring Joy to Homes of Boston's Needy

Deliveries to Continue Throughout Day Until Every Suffering Family Has Food in Plenty for Holiday's Feast

There's still time to help. Contributions of any size will be welcome. Address CHRISTMAS BASKET FUND EDITOR, 5 Winthrop Square, Boston.

PICTURES ON PAGES TWO AND THREE

Sweeping up and down and across the city, the Christmas Basket Fund delivery vans are rushing joy, dispelling gloom.

It's a story to make leap the heart of you. It's a tale to bring back with one swoop the Christmas joys of your childhood.

Tears of joy in a mother's eyes. Glee in the hearts of her children. One house, then another, then hundreds more. Dreams come true. Hopes are realized. Fear vanishes—the worst of fears, the fear of being forgotten.

You who made it possible, you who may yet make it possible for there is still time, though the time is short—are in their grateful thanks and prayers.

Because their prayers, you answered.

CUPBOARD RE-FURNISHED

Look into a little three-room home in Roxbury Neat, but cold. Cupboard all but bare. Half a bag of coal behind the range and no more in sight for this family. A mother and a child.

The door opens. A large basket, trimmed with green, piled high with food for Christmas. Is there a Santa Claus? Well, this child did more than write to Santa; she prayed to God.

"Mother, our prayer's answered!"

Jumping up and down, a poor little miss claps her hands to greet the arrival of the family's Christmas basket.

"Oo, turkey, mother. And—oo, all kinds of vegetables, and gee, lookut, candy!"

EX-ATTY.-GEN. PILLSBURY DIES

Albert E. Pillsbury, 81, former attorney-general for Massachusetts, died in his home, 112 Chestnut st., West Newton, today, after an illness of several months.

Pillsbury, a prominent Beacon st. lawyer, had been connected with political life in Boston for a half century.

Since early summer he had been confined to his home, and, while at one time it was thought he would defeat the advance of years, he sank rapidly after Sunday.

His son, Parker W. Pillsbury, and his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth P. Phillips of Auburndale, were at the bedside when the end came.

Atty. Pillsbury was born in Milford, N. H., Aug. 19, 1849. He was graduated from Lawrence Academy, Groton, in 1867, and was awarded the honorary degree of master of arts by Harvard in 1891. The degree of doctor of laws was bestowed by Howard University and Harvard in 1929. He was admitted to the Massachusetts bar in 1870. He served as president of the Massachusetts Senate in 1885 and 1886, and was Attorney-General from 1891 to 1894.

He published several books on Daniel Webster and Abraham Lincoln and contributed to several magazines on legal history and political subjects.

Storm Stalls Traffic; Gives Work to Many

A heavy northeast snow storm, shading to rain on the South Shore, struck this section early today, bringing the greatest snowfall of the season and apparently assuring a white Christmas.

Moving up from the south with unexpected rapidity, the storm reached Boston at 5:30, and by 8 o'clock several inches of snow had fallen in some districts with indications of continuing all day.

The snow was expected to cease falling tonight, and to be followed by freezing temperatures, destined to make dangerous going for automobiles tomorrow.

Two men were injured when a truck skidded against them as they stood in the rear of a parked car opposite 16 Seaver st., Roxbury.

TWO MEN INJURED

They are Louis Weingarten, 56, of 50 Johnson rd., Mattapan, and Leo Ebsaum, 45, of 1443 Blue Hill ave., Mattapan. Both were taken to City Hospital, Weingarten suffering from a compound fracture of the right leg and Ebsaum from contusions and lacerations of both knees, left thigh and neck. The truck was driven by Louis M. Hulton of 27 Hamilton st., Everett.

In Rhode Island two accidents caused by the storm resulted in injury to one man and shaking up of passengers in two buses, one of which dropped over an embankment.

Clarence F. Gallant was swept from a truck he was driving and suffered severe scalp wounds, when the body of the machine was knocked off in a collision with a railroad gasoline motor bus at Primrose Gardens crossing, North Smithfield. The bus contained 12 passengers and the operator.

PASSENGERS SHAKEN UP

Nine passengers and Owen F. McNally, driver, escaped with a shaking up when a bus from Providence to Worcester skidded over a six-foot bank on Louisquisset pike.

LYNN WIFE, IN PRISON FOR 17 YEARS, FREED

Man Convicted in 1899 Must Leave U. S., Governor Decrees; Dr. Atwood Pardoned

Two life-term prisoners, one a woman, were paroled from State prison today as a Christmas gift by Governor Allen and the Governor's Council, and two others, already out on parole, were granted full pardons.

Mrs. Jessie M. Chapman, sentenced in May, 1913, to [illegible] imprisonment for the murder of Mrs. Florence Ingalls, 56, wife of a [illegible] water inspector, was granted a parole.

CRIME IS CONFESSED

She was found guilty of murder in the second degree on Dec. 6, 1912, in a Lynn street car. Chapman declaring that her life was ruined by Mrs. Ingalls.

Mrs. Chapman entered the prison a comely wife of 46. She leaves the prison a gray-haired woman of 64.

Samuel W. Connors, sentenced to life imprisonment in May, 1899, for an attack on a girl, was given parole with the proviso that he go back to his home in Nova Scotia and remain out of the United States. He has spent 31 years in prison.

A full pardon was granted to Dr. Eldridge D. Atwood of Woburn, who was paroled in 1921 after serving four years of a second degree murder sentence of life for murder of Dr. Wilfred E. Harris, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Chiropathy following the suicide of Dr. Atwood's assistant.

RECALLS BANNON EXPOSE.

The Governor and Council also granted a full pardon to Edward T. Bannon of New Bedford, a former attorney.

Bannon was sentenced in 1926 to three to five years for larceny, but was released in January, 1929, on parole.

While still in State Prison, Bannon, in August, 1928, created a furore when he charged that his transfer back to the prison from the Norfolk Prison Camp was caused because he knew too much about wild parties at the prison camp and about inmates being enabled to visit their wives and friends by automobile.

Partridge Named for Greene's Seat

Montpelier, Vt., Dec. 23 (AP)—Frank C. Partridge, Boston business man, was today appointed by Governor Weeks as U. S. Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Frank L. Greene. A special election has been called for March 31.

Partridge, a staunch Republican, is 71 years old. He is a graduate of Amherst College and Columbia University Law School.

American Basket Fund Sends Sea of Turkeys to Boston Needy

JOY LEAPED INTO HUNDREDS OF HOMES in Boston yesterday. Acts of GOODFELLOWS were bearing fruit. Hungry mouths were given food. From several warehouses trucks moved out loaded with baskets filled with goodies consigned to the needy from the Boston Evening American Basket Fund. The money sent the Boston Evening American by GOODFELLOWS as donations or by patronage of numerous events held in aid of the basket fund made this work possible. Hundreds of other needy families will be presented with baskets today. The work will continue until families on the verified lists are served. Read this list. Think what it means to a hungry family. Every basket has a turkey. The list of other things follows: One dozen oranges, one can peas, one can corn, one can tomatoes, one can string beans, one can baked beans, two loaves bread, half a pound of coffee, one can squash, two pounds of sugar, half a peck of potatoes, pound of hard candy. Miss Eliane Kovitz and Miss Edith Aaron are checking baskets at the warehouse of the Economy Stores, 401 D st., South Boston, before they are sent out to needy families in Greater Boston. G. O. P. Publication Warns of Joining League Court

Washington, Dec. 23 (US)—Denouncing the so-called World Court, as the organ of the League of Nations, the National Republic Magazine, in a leading editorial to appear in the January issue, vigorously opposes the entrance of the United States into the judicial tribunal of the league upon any conditions whatever.

It charges that financial internationalists are the chief driving force behind this propaganda" to tie this country up to the League of Nations through its court.

IS TOOL OF LEAGUE

"Shall America be denationalized?" is the title of the forthcoming editorial which reads in part as follows:

"American entry in the league court would represent another step toward the fulfillment of the program, so ardently and persistently urged by socialists and financial internationalists as well as well meaning idealists, for the integration of the United States with the economic and political system of Europe. . . .

The chief driving force behind this propaganda is, however, that of financial internationalists who seek the security of huge foreign investments and large expected profits from world-wide economic imperialism.

"The world court is an organ of the League of Nations. It is called the judicial tribunal of that body. The American people have refused to permit this country to accept membership in the League of Nations for reasons so appealing and so generally understood that they need no repetition. We are asked, however, to submit it ourselves to the jurisdiction of the judicial tribunal of the league, whose only body of law is that enacted at Geneva, or which the court may formulate for itself. The league court is in no true sense a court.

MINORITY MEMBER

"U. S. only minority courts are of two kinds. Those which interpret an established body of law and we have no determined body of international law other than that which may be enveloped by the League of Nations, and which we do not hold binding upon us —and those which arbitrate differences between nations.

"The basis of arbitral courts and the only guarantee of their fairness is the equal representation of both parties to a dispute in the personnel of the court. In the League Court, as in the League, America would sit as a minority member affected by those collusions of interest between foreign powers as against the United States which would give this country small voice in determining matters affecting our vital interests.

"Emphasis is placed upon the thought that the United States can, whenever dissatisfied, withdraw from the court. Theodore Roosevelt declared that the United States should enter no international arrangement not thoroughly understood in all its implications in advance, and that once having entered it, we should accept the full responsibilities and penalties of our step. Acceptance of the League Court's obligations in so far as they are to our advantage, while claiming the right to reject any action we do not like, would only create additional misunderstanding with other powers.

LOSES VETO POWER

"Under Senate reservation V to the protocol, which foreign powers refused to accept, the United States would have had the right to decide what questions affecting American vital national interests could be submitted to the League Court for advisory opinions. Under the Root formula, we 1 at this right of veto, and retain only the right of withdrawal, which if attempted even in a matter we considered domestic, would call upon us the maledictions of all anti-Americans both at home and abroad.

"The United States should advance no further into the maze of European politics against which Washington and Jefferson so eloquently warned us. We wish to live, as Americans, a peaceful, independent national existence, with good will toward the rest of the world, with no designs of aggression to disturb its peace, but with a determination to preserve to ourselves rather than scatter vainly throughout the world, our heritage of liberty, security, and prosperity."

DOOMED KILLER BREAKS JAIL

Salem, N. J., Dec. 23—Three hours after being sentenced to death for murder, Charles Fithian, 22, escaped from his cell in the county jail here last night.

The slayer placed a table against the wall, stood on it and pulled himself through a ventilator in the ceiling which led outside the jail wall.

French Cabinet Fills Vacancies

Paris, Dec. 23 (AP)—The council of ministers today filled several vacancies by resignations. Maurice Dormann was made minister of pensions; Ernest Breant, under secretary of state for the interior; Etienne Charlot, under secretary for agriculture; Jacques Stern, under secretary for the navy, and Pierre Teisard-Deyeron, under secretary for physical education.

GUIFFRE SHOT IN BACK IN FRACAS

The fact that Carmello Guiffre, on trial for his life, was shot in the back, was impressed today on the Superior Court jury by John P. Feeney, counsel for Guiffre, in summing up the defense case.

Guiffre, on trial for the murder of Morris Lerner in the Revere Veterans' Association headquarters at Revere, may know his fate before Christmas, the expectation being that the case will go to the jury by noon tomorrow.

As Atty. Feeney argued for Guiffre the defendant's wife, who was a spectator in the closing hours of the long court drama, listened intently to the attorney's words.

Feeney reminded the jury that physicians had testified in support of Guiffre's contention that he was shot in the back while leaving the veterans' building.

Brockton Union Will Demand Wage Boost

Brockton, Dec. 23—The edge makers and heelers union announced today it would demand a 10 per cent wage increase at tonight's meeting of shoe unions, called to consider the manufacturers' proposal for a general 10 per cent decrease. The edge makers and heelers are the first of the 13 shoe unions in the city to act on the proposal.

Wood Backs Lucas and Calls Norris 'Demagogue'

Washington, Dec. 23 (AP)—The Republican controversy over party repudiation of "men like Senator Norris," flamed anew today.

After talking to President Hoover, Chairman Wood of the Republican congressional campaign committee denounced the Independent Norris as "a consummate demagogue." He announced intention to back to the limit the stand taken against Norris by Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National Committee.

Wood is the first of the administration regulars in Congress to speak out. The issue now seems placed before President Hoover, but he has said nothing.

BANGING AT EACH OTHER.

Meanwhile, the Republican Independent group in the Senate was preparing for a serious dispute. Senator Norris issued a statement last night denouncing Lucas.

Today Senator Brookhart, Republican Independent, of Iowa, issued a statement saying:

"Secretary Mellon . . . has no right to set up a Republican committee with money to overdue any Republican Senator who listens to the voice of the people.

"Robert H. Lucas says there is a cancer in the Republican party and that it must be cut out. He is right. But he does not recognize the cancerous part. The personal head of this cancerous growth is Andrew W. Mellon.

"Robert H. Lucas is only a little malignant wart under the toenail of this big personality."

The Senate campaign funds committee, which discovered Lucas had financed some anti-Norris campaigning in Nebraska, yesterday found Lucas had used funds of the Republican national committee in securing the loans he made from a bank here to pay for the anti-Norris propaganda.

ALL WATCHING HOOVER

Senate Republicans insist the issue of Norris' right to party recognition is not up to them and they are watching the attitude of the President and the national committee toward Lucas.

Nye to Investigate $40,000 Slush Fund

Washington, Dec. 23 (INS)—Records of the $40,000 "war chest" created by J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee for the convenience of Robert H. Lucas, executive director, will be the next objective of the Nye senatorial campaign investigation committee.

Still Blast Routs 10 Families

Baltimore, Dec. 23 (INS)—An explosion of a 200-gallon still today caused 10 families to flee from their homes in Stemmers Run. The house containing the still was burned.

SNOW PROVIDES MANY JOBS

near Limerock, six miles from Providence.

On the Newburyport Turnpike in Saugus a five-ton truck slid off the road at Hunt's Corner, and wedged itself between two trees. The driver, Allen Calder of Grant st., Somerville, was unhurt.

Worcester and points north and west, reported nearly six inches of snow, causing joy to the unemployed who were put to work removing it in a number of places.

In Boston John J. Shields, director of the municipal employment bureau, sent 12 men to City Hospital to clear paths and driveways before 9 o'clock and expected calls for more men later.

This afternoon Public Works Commissioner Joseph A. Rourke ordered out 100 plows and 500 regular employes to clear the streets of the outlying sections of the city.

He said if the storm continued, warranting snow removal by trucks he would put men of the sanitary division to work tonight.

AIR TRAVEL STOPPED.

Worcester, where traffic was severely impaired by the storm, put on 200 extra men on the job of snow removal.

The storm was general along the coast from Halifax, N. S., to Cape Hatteras, with snow falling in different sections as far south as New York and Philadelphia.

Storm warnings were ordered out from Nobska Light, off the Rhode Island shore, to Eastport, Me. The disturbance was reported centered about 200 miles south of Nantucket and moving northward with increasing intensity. Strong northeast gales were expected.

Air travel was completely stopped, while traffic on land and sea was seriously impaired.

Shipping moved slowly and cautiously while reports particularly from north and west of Boston came in from five to 15 minutes late in many cases.

Motorists found the going very bad, with the thick, sticky snow clinging to windshields and turning the pavements into slippery stretches which caused much skidding.

North of Boston, in Concord, Lexington, Wakefield and throughout that section, a heavy snowfall was reported, with from three to four inches recorded.

SNOWPLOWS OUT EARLY.

In many of these communities snowplows were ordered out early and where possible unemployed were put to work.

In Worcester both trolley and train services were handicapped.

In Keene, N. H., snow started falling early on top of several inches remaining from the last storm. Portland, Me., reported an old-fashioned snow storm, general throughout the state. Four inches had fallen in Bridgeport, Conn., accompanied by a high wind. Hanover, N. H., reported a heavy snowfall and Cedar Rapids recorded two inches by nine o'clock. Railroad men said the storm was worming north, having reached Patten in Northern Penobscot county.

The unofficial forecast: Cloudy and colder tonight; Wednesday, partly cloudy and somewhat colder; moderate to fresh northwest winds. The temperature at 5 o'clock today was 33 at the weather bureau.

All Traffic Disrupted by Snow in Springfield

Springfield, Dec. 23 (AP)—Traffic of all kinds was disorganized today by the first real snowfall of the season. The snow quickly packed to an icy surface. Motor vehicles, including buses, made poor going on grades, despite copious sanding. Minor collisions were numerous.

The street railway early placed sweepers in operation. Steam railroad trains from the west were delayed half an hour.

Aged Bishop Scores Three Goals at Soccer

London, Dec. 23 (AP)—The 72-year-old Bishop of London, the Rt. Rev. Arthur Foley Winnington-Ingram, scored three goals in a soccer football match yesterday and enjoyed the game.

Bishop of London

The bishop played for his old school, Marlborough College, in an alumni match against Radley. Marlborough won by 8 to 4.

Actress Sues Rothschild for $250,000 Heart Balm

New York, Dec. 23—Miss Vera McCord, prominent Broadway actress, has filed suit for $250,000 heart balm against Maurice Rothschild, 66, multimillionaire, alleging he promised to marry her and then failed to live up to his agreement.

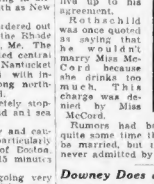
Vera McCord

Rothschild was once quoted as saying that he wouldn't marry Miss McCord because she drinks too much. This charge was denied by Miss McCord.

Rumors had been current for quite some time that they were to be married, but the rumors were never admitted by Rothschild.

Downey Does an 'Alden' On Radio for Plant

New York, Dec. 23 (AP)—The Daily News today says that Morton Downey is doing a John Alden over the radio in an effort to reconcile Constance Bennett and her former husband, Philip Plant.



Morton Downey

Downey's song, "My Yesterdays With You," was written by Plant, the News says, and passed on to the tenor with the hope that Miss Bennett would interpret between the notes. Plant has postponed a hunting trip to Africa, says the paper, to await results.

Miss Bennett divorced the millionaire in Paris in 1929. Downey is the husband of her sister, Barbara.

Gunmen Shoot Man, Woman by Mistake

Chicago Dec. 23 (AP)—Discovery of a hidden gun nest in an apartment in the Rogers pk. district today led police to conclude that a man and woman, shot six hours earlier, had been the victims of a miscarried gangland plot. The wounded persons were Mrs. Henrietta Guthrie, 54, a widow, and E. W. Stone, an insurance man.

A submachine gun, fully loaded with 100 cartridges, and trained through the window of the apartment, was found. Terry Druggan, the "beer baron," had an undercover apartment two blocks from the scene. Stone might have been mistaken for him.

Marjorie Crawford to Wed Film Producer

Los Angeles, Dec. 23—Announcement of the engagement of Marjorie Crawford, prominent aviatrix, and William Wellman, noted motion picture producer, was made yesterday. The wedding will take place next year.

Marjorie Crawford

Less than a week ago the aviatrix was granted a decree from Cecil C. Crawford, but the decree does not become final until the latter part of 1931.

She and Wellman met several months ago, just before he departed for Canada on a big-game hunt. Wellman was divorced last August by his second wife, Margery Chapin Wellman.

14-Ton Bell Is Lifted 120 Feet

Despite the storm, the gigantic chime bell imported from Russia for the tower of the Lowell House, Harvard, was hoisted to its 120-foot perch today.

This bell weighs 14½ tons and is the largest of 21 ranging in weight down to 24 pounds.

After it is set in the belfry the bell will be blocked to await construction of suitable supporting timbers and installation of the clapper, which weighs a half-ton.

The bell cast in 1896, was purchased from a small church in Lexington, where, together with the others, it had been put for melting.

Woman Victim of Auto Is Identified

Miss Harriett Mills, 73, wealthy resident of 3 Spruce st., Beacon Hill, is the woman who was knocked down by an automobile last night on Charles st., between Revere and Pinckney sts.

She was identified today at Massachusetts General Hospital, where her name is on the danger list. She has a fractured skull. Dr. L. Hobbs of Highland ave., Malden, driver of the car, who drove on the sidewalk in an attempt to avoid hitting her, took Miss Mills to the hospital.

4 Billions Needed for Public Works

New York, Dec. 23 (INS)—More than $4,500,000,000 worth of major public improvements are needed in the United States at the present time, according to a report completed here by S. W. Strauss and Co. In this estimate no allowance was made for private work. Of the work needed, only $1,200,000,000 of the construction by federal, state, county and municipal governments, is now under way.

Priest Tortured to Death by Bandits

Shanghai, Dec. 23 (AP) Details of the death of the Catholic missionary, Fr. Marcus, at the hands of Chinese Communist bands have been received here.

The father, driven out, returned to the mission to save his vestments and sacred vessels. Communists seized him and stripped and beat him. Then they blinded him with lime and slowly strangled him. He was buried without a coffin.

14 Families Ordered Out

Danville, Va., Dec. 23 (AP)—Fourteen strikers' families in houses owned by the Riverside and Dan River cotton mills must vacate after Christmas, as the result of writs of possession granted today by Magistrate W. E. Griggs.

Another Tidal Wave of Turkeys Bought by Fund to Cheer Poor

TRUCKS THUNDERED through Boston streets yesterday carrying baskets from the Boston Evening American Basket Fund to needy poor. These same trucks will speed about the city today. Turkeys and good things will go into homes where turkeys have not been seen for months and years. There were scenes of satisfaction everywhere. Children smiled—mothers said—a hearty "thank you," and then a tear came, as the door closed slowly. Look at these baskets ready for today's delivery. They are at warehouse of the Atlantic & Pacific Stores, 2225 Washington st. Joseph Regan is shown as he checks the contents of baskets to be sure that each family will receive the proper articles. (Staff photo.)

APPRECIATION is registered here by a mother of a Roxbury family as a happy and interested driver delivered the basket that meant so much to her having a cheery Christmas. The driver is William Tompkins. Tompkins declared he never was lucky enough to be on so good a mission. (Staff photo.)

FOR SEVEN YEARS Anita Bedigan, 9-year-old Allston girl, has passed her yearly savings over to the Boston Evening American Basket Fund. Anita came in yesterday with her 1930 savings. It will aid some Boston needy family to get a grand Christmas dinner with turkey and everything.

BANKER, SUED, KILLS SELF

Baltimore, Dec. 23 (AP)—T. Ward Hambleton, president of the banking firm of Hambleton & Co. was found shot to death in his home at Lutherville, a suburb, today. A coroner gave a verdict of suicide.

The banker, prominent in New York, Baltimore and European society, had just returned from a big game hunting expedition in Indo-China. His wife, the former Adelaide McAlpin, daughter of the New York hotel magnate, has established residence in Reno to seek a divorce. They had been married for 20 years.

Mr. Hambleton was depressed over his marital difficulties and the death of his brother, John A. Hambleton, in an airplane crash.

Hambleton entered the banking business with a $3,000,000 inheritance from his father's estate.

In the World War he became a brigadier-general of reserves. He entered the service as a major and won the Distinguished Service Medal, the British Distinguished Service Order and the French Legion of Honor.

Beside his widow, he is survived by one son, T. Edward Hambleton, Jr., student at Yale.

Chicago Faces Dry New Year's Eve

Chicago, Dec. 23 (AP)—Plans to keep Chicago dry New Year's Eve were announced today by Arthur Hamilton, deputy administrator of prohibition for the Chicago area.

"Every man in our department," he said, "will be on duty New Year's Eve. Wherever there is any indication that the prohibition law is being flagrantly violated by hotel and club proprietors arrests will be made."

Hundreds Routed by Gas Plant Blast

Newport News, Va., Dec. 23 (AP)—A terrific explosion in the acetylene gas plant of the Virginia Gas & Products Co. early today hurled people from their beds, catapulted furniture about and sent hundreds fleeing into the snow and frigid atmosphere in night clothes.

Police said only minor injuries were suffered. Debris from the wrecked building was thrown more than a quarter of a mile.

Two Connecticut Banks Are Closed

Hartford, Ct., Dec. 23 (INS)—The state banking commissioner today closed the Riverside Trust Company, a commercial banking institution, and Pallotti, Andretta & Co., one of the oldest private banks in the state. The Riverside Trust Company has deposits of about $5,000,000, while Pallotti, Andretta & Co. have deposits of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

GIRL'S SAVINGS GO TO NEEDY

Miss Anita Bedigan, nine, of 9 Boulevard ter., Allston, today brought the fruits of a year's careful saving into the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund editor with the fervent hope that she could aid in her own small way to help the poor and needy.

For the past seven years, Anita has visited the office of the Basket Fund editor and turned over her contribution. Each one of the seven contributions has been larger than the one before, and this year Anita gave five dollars.

It is her intention to continue her yearly saving until she reaches the age when a larger donation can be made.

ROCKNE FACING BREAKDOWN

Rochester, Minn., Dec. 23 (AP)—Coach Knute Rockne of Notre Dame must retire from this strenuous mode of living, or a complete breakdown may result," Dr. C. J. Barboka of teh Mayo Clinic, his physician, said today.

This warning, contained in a statement issued at the conclusion of a complete examination of the coach's physical condition, did not mean Rockne would have to quit his coaching position. Dr. Barboka said.

Examination revealed no recurrence of the old troubls of phlebitis in one of his legs, according to Dr. Barboka, but he warned the football master that it was apt to recur or a breakdown result if Rockne did not forsake numerous "outside activities."

Dr. Barboka said he understood Rockne planned to remain here until next Tuesday to complete his rest.

Santa Leaves 18th Child as Yule Gift

Murphysboro, Ill. Dec. 23 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Butcher are the parents of 18 children. The eldest is 26 and the youngest was born last Saturday.

1,670,000,000 Letters Handled in Yule Holiday Rush

Washington, Dec. 23 (AP)—The gigantic Santa Claus sled of the Christmas mail was estimated to have hit the peak today, and now is poised for its sharp toboggan to normalcy.

If its aggregate equals last year's as is expected by the post office department, the Christmas mails will have carried 1,670,000,000 letters; 20,000,000 packages, and 17,000,000 postcards.

Vanderbilt's Mother Indorsed by G. O. P.

Providence, Dec. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Paul Fitzsimmons, Newport society woman and mother of State Senator William H. Vanderbilt, has been indorsed by the executive committee of the Republican State Central Committee for the post of Republican National Committee woman from Rhode Island to succeed Mrs. Charles J. Steedman, resigned.

Mellon's Son Will Learn Father's Game

Washington, Dec. 23 (INS)—Paul Mellon, only son of the secretary of the treasury, is going to enter his father's banking house next year and learn to be a financier.

"I feel that I ought to learn somethine of the management of father's interests," he said.

EXTRA SESSION STIRS FIGHT

Washington, Dec. 23 (AP)—Opposition to the extra session of Congress called for by Senator Borah was expressed today by Chairman Wood of the House appropriations committee. He had just been in conference with President Hoover.

Administration leaders are seeking ways and means of avoiding necessity for an extra session. Borah said yesterday he felt legitimate reasons for one existed.

Allen Sends Names for Council to O. K.

Gov. Allen today sent the following appointments and reappointments to the executive council for confirmation:

Arthur C. Spaulding, Lowell, master in chancery, vice Haven G. Hill, of Lowell; Stella Goostray, Boston, board of registration of nurses, vice Jessie E. Catton, resigned; Thomas H. Greenway, associate medical examiner first Hampden district, vice Francis A. Slowick, resigned.

G. Wilbur Thompson, Newton, board of examiners of plumbers; Harold L. Frost, Arlington, and Frank Garrett, Springfield, trustees Massachusetts Agricultural College, reappointments.

INDIAN WOMEN BEG UNITY

London, Dec. 23 (AP)—Eloquent appeals by two women delegates to the Indian round table conference today renewed the discussion of the critical minorities problem in India.

The Begum Shah Nawaz pleaded fervently:

"As daughters we beg of you, as sisters and mothers we demand that you come to a settlement. The success of your mission lies in Hindu-Moslem unity."

The Begum is a Moslem. Mrs. Subbarayan, who followed her, is a Hindu. The latter supported the plea of her sister delegate, saying:

"Whatever our creed, we are still Indians, and if we are united there is a wonderful future before us."

Both women praised Ramsay MacDonald's conduct of the conference.

Court Has 6 Boys Whipped for Theft

Lapeer, Mich., Dec. 23 (AP)—Summary punishment with whips was administered today to six youths with the approval of the judge before whom they were charged with a series of thefts. The whippings were administered by officers under the personal supervision of the parents. The youths ranged from 17 to 19 years. Five had confessed and implicated the sixth. The boys' mothers stood by during the whippings.

Christmas Toy Fund Is Oversubscribed

Springfield, Dec. 23 (AP)—In spite of hard times, the public here has oversubscribed by $1000 a fund raised by newspapers to provide toys for children of the needy. The newspapers had asked for $3000.

Goose, Fattened for Holiday Dinner, Swims Away

Newburyport, Dec. 23—Evidently realizing his life on this earth was not for long, a goose, well fattened and intended for the Christmas dinner of Mrs. Nellie F. Blaisdell of 73 Merrimac st. and her family, had today left his residence for parts unknown. Last seen it was swimming down the Merrimack river.

Danger of British Coal Strike Averted

London, Dec. 23 (INS)—The last threat of a coal strike in Great Britain was eliminated today when the miners decided to accept the "spreadover compromise" guaranteeing a set number of hours work per fortnight. The government's measure establishes a regular 7½-hour day. The mine owners insisted upon a proportionate reduction in wages. The miners at first refused to accept this reduction.

Assassin Wounds Governor of Punjab

Lahore, India, Dec. 23 (AP)—Sir Geoffrey de Montmorency, governor of the Punjab, was slightly wounded today by two shots fired at him as he attended the university convocation. One bullet hit his hip and the other grazed his arm.

Two police officials were also injured in the attempt on the governor's life. Two students were arrested.

Soviets Aid Jobless

Hamburg, Germany, Dec. 23 (AP)—Ten 43-meter motor-driven fishing boats are to be built here for the Soviet government under a contract which stipulates that labor employed on the job must be drawn from the unemployed. The job involves $1,500,000.

2 BANDITS GET PRISON TERMS

Springfield, Dec. 23 (AP)—In sentencing Patrick Padden of Holyoke to State prison for eight to fifteen years for his part in two armed holdups and James J. McGrath, 23, of Holyoke, to prison for three to five years for carrying a revolver, Judge Frederick W. Fosdick today made known his determination to deal severely with holdup men.

He said every newspaper has a list of hold-ups, and the time has come to deal severely with all offenders. Padden held up two Holyoke men and when confronted by policemen threatened them with his gun. They fired shots in the air and captured him.

"I am sorry the police shot in the air," said the court.

McGrath denied two armed holdups but admitted carrying the revolver.

Stamford Benefactor Dies

Stamford, Conn., Dec. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Hannie M. H. Miller, 73, whose benefactions to Stamford welfare organizations have totalled approximately $1,000,000, died today.

Would Let Man Hold Only One Job

Editor Boston American:

I read with pleasure of a change in policy of General Electric Co. in regard to employment of married women whose husbands are salaried men.

Why not continue the good work by forcing all those, both men and women, who are holding down two positions to give up one?

I am one of the fortunately employed, willingly giving one-tenth of my salary to help in these hard times, but cannot help thinking there has been some neglect on the part of those who might and should help along these investigations.

In normal times there are able bodied men holding two positions, drawing two envelopes, while the practically disabled veteran trying to live on a small compensation should be given the chance.

With justice for the present to the unemployed and afterward to the disabled vet—another vet.

H. M. CLARK.

This Plan Would Put Tax on All "Outside" Job Holders

Editor Boston American:

Why not be fair with the Boston tax payers? If the tax payers had the first jobs in the city we all would have a job. Seven-tenths of all positions in the City of Boston are held by men and women who pay taxes in some other city or town.

I believe that it would be just to have every one that has a job in Boston pay a poll-tax, and exempt the resident of Boston that is out of work.

And do not threaten Boston residents with arrest because it is impossible for us to pay taxes on time. Give Boston tax payers jobs first, or make those pay taxes that take our jobs, and there will be no delinquent tax payers.

LOUIS C. DOLCHE.

Writer Would Meet Mrs. Faith Christian

Editor Boston American:

After having read and pondered over a letter of tonight's creation, signed Mrs. Faith Christian, would it be possible to favor me with her name and address? I would like to get in touch with her. Thanking you.

MRS. MAY MOSES.

Truck Full of Coal Too Much for One Man

Editor Boston American:

In these days of traffic congestion and unemployment, I would like to know what right some coal companies have to send out a five-ton truck full of coal to be shoveled down a coal chute by only one man.

I saw such a condition on Beacon st., near Masachusetts ave. The poor driver worked like a Trojan; but as his truck was backed to the sidewalk, it blocked off half the street.

Now this should be a two-man job. It is unreasonable to block a busy street, and it is inhuman to make one man shovel five tons of coal without even a chance to draw his breath.

PAUL CIFRINO.

Business Men Urged to Back Cash Bonus Plan

Editor Boston American:

According to the press the ways and means committee are trying to sidetrack the bill, calling for the payment of adjusted service certificates in cash.

Very little has been done so far at this session of Congress to get a vote on this issue. Ninety per cent of the veterans are going to stand shoulder to shoulder on this issue at the next election, and 90 per cent of the veterans' votes cannot be wrong. The veterans will vote out the ones who are against giving us a cash bonus.

Paying the veterans in cash now will put into circulation over three billion dollars. This money will not be hoarded, it will go at once to buying various sundries, real estate, furniture, etc. The stores at once will place orders with the factories. (That is where the unemployment relief comes in.) Countless of thousands will be put to work to meet the demand. It is up to every business firm and citizen to write Senators and Congressmen at once to support the Wright Patman bonus bill to pay the boys in cash.

Do this at once, do not put it off. This law if passed will benefit every one. The veterans do not want charity. They are demanding a debt that is justly due.

RAYMOND A. HAWKES.

Ballot Count Changes Tune of Candidates

Editor Boston American:

There is no person that has the spirit of forgiveness down so fine as a defeated political candidate for office. This was evident in a small city in Massachusetts only lately.

This defeated candidate announced his opponent before election in conversation as everything from a rat to a skunk. But after election, when defeated, he termed his former opponent as a very fine fellow.

This is going some on forgiveness, is it not?

Harvard Students Will Need to Rake Their Hair

Editor Boston American:

Combs in the Egyptians were made of bone, ivory and wood, but for those Harvard students, of which I am one, who never wear hats or caps in any sort of weather, when spring comes it will require a garden rake to smooth their stubborn locks of hair.

JOHN J. L.

Why Veterans Should Be Paid Their Bonus

Editor Boston American:

Is it true quite a few members of Congress do not believe it is possible the ex-service men would like to have their bonus, or war debt, paid to them?

Is it impossible for those same members of Congress to have access to records that might show them, how many certificates have been borrowed upon and not paid back?

Is it really true that foreign governments have been able to borrow money from the United States government at less than 1 per cent interest while the our own government charges us her ex-service men, 6 per cent on our certificates?

Were the railroads asked to take a due bill, or a post dated, check, marked non-negotiable, or were they paid cash?

And were all our war contractors 7000 or so, given a nice big trading stamp, payable only after 20 yrs, (except with heavy penalties) or unless they were mean enough to go and die, or were they paid cash without even a commissions investigation?

England borrowed money from the United States to pay her soldiers a bonus, and paid them from $280 to $4,758. Every country allied with the United States paid their soldiers a liberal bonus.

The United States spent as her whole cost of the war $36,000,000,000 but $18,000,000,000 of it went to make new millionaires; 23,000 millionaires were made during the war.

And buddies, if you really do not feel like laughing over it and if you think yours old enough to handle your own money yourself write to your congressman and tell him about it.

WHITTAKER BARNES

Urge Five-Day Week to Solve Unemployment

Editor Boston American:

It seems to me the country's best minds are unable to find some successful plan to solve unemployment.

Any ordinary person knows one-third of country's active workers work more than 60 and 70 hours a week.

If they were organized, even if they wanted shorter hours, they can get them.

If the government wants a remedy for unemployment here it is, and this is the time to do it.

Make a law that no establishment should employ their help more than seven hours a day, five days a week. If each store or employer in the country hired an average of two men there would be about 5,000,000 new jobs provided at little if any lesser profits to employers.

Airplane Use Urged to Develop Alaska

Editor Boston American:

One of the most interesting projects was mentioned in Boston a short time ago when the conversation turned about new developments in Canada.

They have been using for some time aircraft for mineral exploration and development.

This will result in finding more mineral deposits in the next five years than have been unearthed in the last half century.

Why not apply more air craft to Alaska for this same purpose? Is not Alaska full of copper, gold and minerals that should be made marketable?

A million tons of newsprint is delivered to the presses of the United States every year and will be delivered for some time to come. If Canada is forging ahead with the use of aircraft, why not make this agency more available in Alaska? It is being done to some extent, but push this more.

DIVORCE SUIT IS LEFT TO WIFE

Edgar I. Levinstein, wealthy retired president of the Dyestuffs Corporation of America and cousin of Baron von Huenefeld, who flew from Ireland in Greenly island, failed to appear in Middlesex Probate Court yesterday to contest a suit for divorce, it was learned today.

Mrs. Edith Washburn Levinstein of Gloucester, who, like her husband, is prominent in horse show circles, charged him with cruel and abusive treatment at Concord on August 5, 1929, 13 months after their marriage.

Levinstein, who has homes in Boston and Concord, was expected to contest the suit, as Atty. John P. Feeney had entered an appearance as his counsel, but yesterday this appearance was withdrawn, and neither Levinstein nor an attorney was present.

Judge Arthur E. Beane, who heard the wife's story, took the case under consideration. It was indicated the divorce would be granted.

Last Tribute Paid to Capt. Andrews

Worcester, Dec. 23 (AP)—The funeral of Capt. Roland F. Andrews, editor of the Worcester Telegram and the Evening Gazette, author, traveler and soldier was held in First Unitarian Church today.

Rev. Dr. Maxwell Savage, pastor of the church and a personal friend of Capt. Andrews, officiated. Worcester Chapter, Military Order of the World War, of which Capt. Andrews was a founder and the first president, attended in a body.

The body was taken to Forest Hills Cemetery, Boston, for cremation.

Decree for Her

IT WAS INDICATED in Judge Beane's court today that a decree of divorce would be granted to Mrs. Edith Washburn Levinstein of Gloucester, prominent in horse show circles, following failure of Edgar I. Levinstein, wealthy retired manufacturer, to appear to contest her suit. (Staff photo.)

'Boy Broker' Ryder Faces Prison Term

New York, Dec 23 (AP)—H. Russell Ryder, 35-year-old "playboy broker," pleaded guilty today to an indictment charging grand larceny. Ryder is liable to from five to 10 years in prison. He was credited with running a shoestring to $15,000,000 by trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

2 FIRED BY NEW POWER BOARD

Washington, Dec. 23—George Otis Smith of Maine, newly appointed chairman of the reorganized Federal Power Commission, today dismissed Charles A. Russell, solicitor, and William Y. King, chief accountant, of the old commission. Russell and King had attempted to block "watering" of power stocks but failed.

Senator George W. Norris (R) Nebraska, termed the dismissals "an outrage."

"They have fired two patriots," he remarked.

Senator Nye (R), North Dakota, said:

"Here were two outstanding figures who had demonstrated they were real friends of the interests of the people in litigation involving power who now have their heads taken off," he said. "This ought to be taken as a forerunner of what to expect from the new commission."

Soviet Ban on Home Cooking Not Decree

New York, Dec. 23 (AP)—Plans for elimination of socialized food distribution in Soviet Russia looking toward abolition of home cooking are contained in a resolution of the central committee of the Communist party and not in the form of a decree as erroneously reported by the Associated Press yesterday. A resolution of the central committee of the party is binding upon party members, but has not the effect of a decree for the entire population.

Fewer British Jobless but Still 2,299,592

London, Dec. 23 (AP)—A substantial reduction in unemployment figures has come as a Christmas gift to England. On Dec. 15 the total was 2,299,592, which is 7,370 less than the week before, although still 906,033 above the same week last year.

NEW YORK HAS ALIEN DRIVE

New York, Dec. 23 (US)—Acting Captain Michael F. McDermott today assumed charge of the newly created alien bureau of the police department. He will be assisted by a staff of eight picked men. Their job is to ferret out and deport noncitizens who are criminals.

A survey of the state prisons will be made to learn how many aliens are serving time. As fast as they are released they will be deported.

Capt. McDermott advocates a change in the federal laws so that the alien criminals can be deported before the termination of their sentences. He said:

"It would be better and cheaper for us to get rid of them at once, rather than feed, clothe and house them and give them radios in their cells."

The present day killers, said Capt. McDermott, come mostly from southern Europe, where life is cheaply held. These gunmen, he said keeping pace with the times, have merely commercialized an inherited instinct.

IN SCHOOL AND COLLEGE COLORS

College Bowl* Model, $9 up

Here's a gift that will be the envy of the campus. A College Bowl* model Rumidor in school or college colors. Other models from $2 to $20.

Rumidor is a scientific, patented container for cigars, cigarettes and tobacco, using 12-year-old Medford rum for a preservative. As the rum evaporates it keeps the tobacco moist and mellow and imparts an aroma which makes smoking a new-found pleasure. Poor tobaccos taste good. Good tobaccos taste better. Beware of imitations. Look for name on the cover. Sold by leading department stores, jewelers, tobacconists and men's shops. The Rumidor Corp., 501 5th Ave., N. Y. C.

CLEARING HOUSE RINGS NUMBER POOL KNELL

New York, Dec. 23 (INS)—The Clearing House officially announced today that after Dec. 31 no more daily Clearing House figures would be issued.

Weekly exchanges of the clearing houses will be made available to financial houses and responsible persons who are interested.

When asked if this information would be given out or be obtained privately from the Clearing House, an official said:

"We would rather not say, as we don't want the public betting on them."

He said he did not believe the exchanges would be made available to newspapers and news services.

The figures can be obtained at all times for statistical purposes by responsible persons, however.

The action in discontinuing publication of the daily figures followed a conference yesterday at which the action taken today was considered, because of the numbers lottery run all over the country and based on the daily clearing house figures.

PHONE GIRL, BY WIT, SAVES 3

Sterling, Dec. 23—The courage of a girl telephone operator saved the lives of three elderly women early today when fire swept the local exchange in an apartment block with a loss of $15,000.

Miss Edith Sawyer was alone on duty in the telephone office when flames swept from the basement and smoke filled the exchange. The girl, unmindful of her own danger, telephoned the fire departments of Leominster, Lancaster and Clinton before the wires were put out of commission.

Firemen rescued Mrs. Fannie Lent, 60; Miss Mollie Rieker, 65, and Miss Mollie Jager, 70, occupants of apartments above the exchange. A grocery store on the first floor was also damaged.

Million Farmers Already Assisted

Washington, Dec. 23 (INS)—More than 1,000,000 farmers have been aided by the agricultural marketing act, the federal farm board announced today in a bulletin. Seven national agencies have been established by co-operatives with assistance of the board. Six of these are sale agencies. Five are marketing grain, cotton, livestock, wool and pecans.

Policeman Shot Battling Kidnapers

Long Beach, Cal., Dec. 23 (AP)—Gangsters who kidnaped E. L. Caress, Los Angeles race track man, and his wife, and forced him to sign checks for $50,000, battled three policemen at a dock here yesterday, wounding one. One suspect, James J. Sherman, was captured. Policeman W. H. Waggoner was wounded critically.

Detroit Teacher Shot in Classroom

Detroit, Dec. 23 (AP)—Mrs. Fannie Brown, 44, a teacher in an intermediate school, was shot and seriously wounded as she stood at her desk at 8 a. m. today, by a man who fled. The teacher was said to have accused an auto company employe. She said that she had refused to accept Christopher's attentions.

Veteran Canadian Journalist Is Dead

Toronto, Dec. 23 (AP)—One of Canada's outstanding journalists, Claud A. C. Jennings, died last night. He was on the editorial staff of the Toronto Mail and Empire 38 years and its chief editor for 29 years. His widow and three daughters survive.

FIVE ELUDE ONE TRAIN, KILLED BY ANOTHER

Cranford, N. J., Dec. 23 (INS)—Five railroad workmen were killed and another injured today when a commuters' express struck the group which had stepped out of the way of a Philadelphia-New York express. The accident occurred on the Central Railroad of New Jersey.

The dead: Willis Golden, assistant foreman; Adolph Gardner, Michael Soininzi, all of Dunellen, and Joseph Stanley and Gus Schultz of Aldene.

Golden was the only one of the group who saw the approaching express and could have saved his life, but he tried to pull the others back as the passing commuters' train drowned out the sound of the warning whistle.

Italian Air Fleet Nears Rio de Oro

Kenitra, French Morocco Dec. 23—The fleet of 14 Italian seaplanes, on the way to Rio De Janeiro, took off in groups between 8 a. m. and 9 a. m. today for Villa Cisneros, Rio De Oro. From Villa Cisneros the planes will fly to Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, and will take off thence across the Atlantic to Rio De Janeiro.

$25,000 for the Poor

Burbank, Cal., Dec. 23 (AP)—Robert Stadle, a former Friedland (Germany) resident, who died here Dec. 16, left $25,000 for the poor of the German city. He also willed $200,000 to relatives in Germany.

Farmers Have Money, Texas Guinan's Glad

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Foreign minister of Great Britain broadcast a great bid for peace.

We heard him over here.

That's the trouble. We hear them over here.

But they can't hear us over there.

This is the season of peace on earth and good will to men. And the world is at peace. Except for a few spots.

It would be even more peaceful if the spots didn't overlap.

There is a little broth of a skirmish in Russia. They're pulling and tugging in China and there's a bit of an old fashioned bayonet fiesta in Spain.

But Spain is entitled to a war. It wasn't in the last one and wants to catch up.

King Alfonso was headed north and it looked as if the next cornerstone he dedicated would be in an igloo.

But the revolution seems to have simmered down for the holidays and King Alf is still on the imperial cane seat.

America is at peace with everybody. Not because we're turning effeminate. But because we can't afford to win any more wars.

So you can celebrate the Yuletide with the cheerful feeling that everything is as rosy as sliced tomatoes. We're in the same old barn with the contented cow.

The relief bill is all set like an old concrete bridge.

The farmers will soon have more money than the middlemen will know what to do with.

When the farmers have money everybody has it. It takes a little conniving. But we manage to take it away from them.

Spanish Revolters Freed From Prison

Valencia, Spain, Dec. 23—All members of the Republican junta arrested during the recent rebellion were released today with the exception of Marco Miranda. Lieut.-Gen. Las Heras, wounded by the revolting Jaca garrison, may die of his injuries.

U. S. to Padlock Old Leadville Saloon

Leadville, Colo., Dec. 23 (AP)—The federal government has started proceedings to padlock the Pioneer Saloon, as old and notorious as Leadville itself. The government charges that repeated raids brought no letup in the bar's liquor traffic.

Three Promotions Fill Greek Cabinet

Athens, Dec. 23 (AP)—Premier Venizelos today reconstructed the Greek Cabinet, assigning the portfolios of the war, health and aviation ministries, respectively, to Gens. Katechakes, Papas and Zonas, promoted from under-secretaryships. Perikles Argyropoulos again becomes minister of marine.

Services Held for Veteran Policeman

Funeral services were held today at the Church of St. Mary's Star of the Sea in East Boston for the late traffic officer, Wilfred Boudreau, 35, of East Boston, who died at Massachusetts General hospital Sunday night. He had been connected with the Boston police force over ten years.

Boy 14, Gets Life Term for Killing

St. Clairsville, O., Dec. 23 (AP)—John Woods, 14-year-old slyer of William Meeker, 60, produe dealer, was sentenced to life imprisonment here last night. When he becomes 21 years of age he will be transferred from a reformatory to a penitentiary.

YOUNG PERKINS BASS HAS departed for Arizona to join other members of the family for a Western Christmas. Ex-Governor Bass and Mrs. Bass of New Hampshire, who is a sister of Mrs. Charles Sumner Bird, and the family decided to spend the holidays with Mr. Bass' mother, who has been in poor health. The son, Perkins, who is a freshman at Dartmouth, was one of Dr. Beebe's group on his expedition to the South Seas.

Miss Ruth Bayliss, member of the Vincent Club, is in New York, we hear, with the idea of studying for the stage.

Miss Polly Cushman to Spend Holiday Season in France

MISS POLLY CUSHMAN, attractive daughter of the Rev. Nehemiah of Mt. Vernon st., will sail from Boston Harbor on Christmas Day. She will remain in France where she is studying at the Sorbonne in Paris.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE S. WEST and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Soutter are giving a dinner party at the Chilton Club this evening. They will later take their guests to a dancing party which is being held at the club for a group of juniors who are home from vacation from school.

MRS. HAROLD J. COOLIDGE and her brother, Mr. John S. Lawrence, are leaving in February for Brazil where they will be the guests of Mr. Edwin Vernon Morgan, United States Ambassador at the Embassy in Rio de Janeiro.

THE MARRIAGE OF MISS ELIZABETH MOLLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moller of Milton, to Robert Sanderson, will take place quietly tomorrow at St. Michael's Church, Milton, at 12 noon. Miss Moller is a member of the Junior League and Vincent Club and Mr. Sanderson is a Yale alumnus of the class of 1926.

Wollaston Woman's Club Bring Toys to Crippled Children

The Wollaston Woman's Club publicity committee is receiving Christmas gifts today, donated by members for 75 crippled children in the state hospital at Canton. The committee was furnished with a list of the children who are orphans or have no relatives to care for them, giving ages and their infirmities so that it is possible to remember every child with a suitable gift. The list was presented early this month so that each member of the committee had an opportunity to select a child to remember with a gift. The letters of thanks received from the children themselves often result in the "adopted child" being made happy in other ways throughout the year.

Ladies' Unity Club Social Committee Plans Charity Whist

On Friday, Jan. 2, 1931, there will be a regular monthly meeting of the social activities committee of the Ladies' Unity Club at the home of Miss Fredonia Strauss, 1039 Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, at one o'clock. The chairman, Mrs. Benjamin J. Blakney will preside. At two o'clock members and their friends are invited for cards and the proceeds will go to help maintain the Home for Aged People, Bartlett st., Roxbury. Tea will be served.

popular Bridesmaid--In Engaged Group

MISS KATHLEEN CHASE, daughter of Mrs. Stephen Chase, who was one of the bridesmaids at the marriage of Miss Josephine Marie Auguste and Mr. Clark Winter in New York yesterday. Miss Chase had a leading role in the recent Cercle Francaise play.

MISS SUSAN MOLLER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Moller of Milton, who announced her engagement to Mr. Paul Brooks of Cedarhurst, L. I., this week. Miss Moller is a member of the Vincent Club and Junior League.

Mrs. Walter H. Woods Appeals in Behalf of Heroes Still in Hospitals

By NANCY BREWSTER

A special appeal in behalf of ex-service men throughout the State at Christmas time is being made by Mrs. Walter H. Woods, chairman of co-operation with war veterans in the State Federation.

Mrs. Woods' appeal reads:

"In order that you may have the joy that sharing happiness brings, our division suggests that if there are any ex-service men from your home town in hospitals this Christmas, remember them with a little gift—a new necktie, book of stamps, pencils, pens, bedside bags, shaving sets, mirrors, tooth paste, new dollar bill, cuff links and collar buttons and other such articles.

AID EX-SERVICE WOMEN

"This winter will be a hard one for many families. Find out if there is an ex-service man's family in your town that is in need of a Christmas dinner. Consult existing agencies in your town. When checking up on your ex-service men ask about the ex-service women, too.

"If you have no fellow townsmen in hospitals and no needy families in your vicinity, why not visit the nearest Veterans' Hospital and get acquainted with the men. So many of them will have to stay there for years, and a friendly visitor is always welcome.

"If you are too far away to make such a visit and would like to send a gift by mail just wrap the package carefully and mark it 'Christmas gift' and mail to the hospital.

Personality Gifts May Still Be Found

By ANN ARDEN

THE SUDDEN realization that Christmas is at one's elbow need not throw you into a panic. In fact, there is really nothing to get fretted about even when one cannot shop early. Smart and acceptable gift merchandise is so profuse in the shops these days.

ONE CAN even put personality into last minute gifts, and, as for gift wrappings, never have they been so unusual and fascinating as this season.

IF YOU HAVE a smart feminine friend to gift—any of the fascinating articles pictured would be delightful. No more do we rush to the nearest perfume counter for a bottle of scent because it is used by our best friend. It is just as important to select a perfume with thought to its becomingness as to select a frock, coat or hat for the same reason. Pictured is Le Chic de Molyneux, sophisticated and lovely; and a black and gold atomizer, which might accompany the perfume, or serve as a delightful gift itself.

WHAT WITH the vogue for the elaborate proceeding in such a high-handed manner, it is not to be wondered that the simple handbag has succumbed. Pictured are three fascinating evening bags; one of pink satin, embroidered in gold and pearls; one of white and gold embroidery; and one composed of tiny seed pearls, with gilt chain handle.

THE LONG white kid gloves would make a welcome gift, too. No woman ever had enough costume jewelry. Pictured are a crystal necklace and matching bracelet, having the advantage of "going with" everything. An evening necklace and pendant of brilliants, another of pearls and brilliants, and an exquisite set of carved jade and amethyst necklace and bracelet. The green and black enamel cigarette case is smart; as is the vanity case of silver and Cloisonne; while the mirror possesses both beauty and utility, of green enamel, its handle and edge of gold plate, its cord and heavy tassel green silk.

MODEL from WM. FILENE'S SONS CO.

THE GIFT BOXES show one in blue and silver, with silhouette decorations; the other in red and gold, the ribbon of gauze.

THE FROCK WORN by the surprised and delighted young woman is called the "Hollywood Dress," and is of water green satin, its skirt circular and accented by horizontal tucks. The yoke is of net, as are the small puff sleeves, shirred on narrow satin bands. Applique sprays of pastel flowers, in ribbon, add to the frock's festive air.

THE LAST MILE :-: By Lewis Allen Browne

CHAPTER 28

THE MAN turned to dart away and ran into the arms of a policeman who, standing in a dark doorway, had just seen the blow struck, without having time to prevent it.

The policeman's whistle brought assistance as he clung to his prisoner.

Sid was rushed to a hospital and the assailant was locked up. He was known as "Musty" Connors and had a record for a number of minor offences.

"I make a mistake—I thought he was another guy, an enemy. I had to get square with," was all they could get Connors to say.

Sid's condition was rather serious, they said at the hospital. His newspaper was notified. In turn the city editor notified Lawyer Rogers because he knew much about Sid's efforts in behalf of Dick Walters, whose trial was to begin in the morning.

Rogers was greatly disturbed. Sid was still in a dangerous coma and the doctors reported that they could only wait for a while, have an X-ray made and try and determine if an operation would be necessary.

Rogers did not for a moment believe that Connors had made a mistake. He believed that Connors knocked Sid out on orders from some enemy and that the coming trial of Walters was back of it.

Jurors Chosen

The impaneling of the jury was the first work at the opening of the trial. Lawyer Rogers was greatly disturbed because he couldn't have Sid Cavanaugh with him. He had come to "realize that he could put great reliance on Cavanaugh.

It was tedious work, selecting the jurors, challenging certain of them. District Attorney Kingsley was anxious to get all of the family men possible. Rogers was after the young men, who, he believed, could better understand Dick's situation.

At the end of the first day only five jurors had been selected.

Rogers told Dick that he was going to the hospital to see Cavanaugh.

"Everything seems to be against me," Dick said. "I guess Fate has it in for me—and the worst thing that could happen to me was poor Sid getting knocked out."

Rogers made an effort to cheer him, but it wasn't very successful.

At the hospital Rogers found that Cavanaugh was out of his coma, but in a very weak condition. He asked eagerly how things were going.

"Everything seems to be all right, Cavanaugh," Rogers said, "except your condition. Did you recognize Connors?"

"Never saw him, but I don't take any stock in his claim that he mistook me for some one else. Look here, Nissinger threatened me with plenty of trouble if I dropped him into the case. We had a brief fight and I socked him—do you suppose he hired this 'Musty' Connors to put me out?"

"I'd like to know. I'll do some sleuthing myself, I'll be out of here tomorrow."

Rogers was told at the hospital that he could be at least another day before Cavanaugh could leave.

Manwhile the case had to go on. The twelve good men and true" were finally impaneled and District Attorney Kingsley started those necessary preliminaries of first establishing the death of the victim.

Officer Robbins, of the State police, was the first one called.

Dick Walters suddenly felt very much alone as he saw Officer Robbins take the stand. He realized that he was being tried for his life —that these representatives of the law believed, or claimed to believe, that he had murdered Ethel Simmons. He felt alone because he had no friends at hand. Rogers, his lawyer, was his friend in a way. He believed that Rogers had faith in his story of what happened, but he missed Sid. He had come to rely on him, to lean on him. His absence depressed Dick terribly. He looked about the courtroom, but saw no one he knew. He didn't expect to. His mother couldn't come. He wouldn't have her there for worlds. He had sent her some letters, she had sent him one, couldn't see her. As a matter of fact, she was not there.

When asked by Kingsley if there was anything to indicate that the girl's death might not have been accidental, Robbins stated that there was.

"The girl's dress was torn, as though she had been struggling with someone," he testified. "I told Capt. Hawkins and Sergt. Unger about it."

Rogers wasn't through with his cross-examination before court had to be adjourned.

Dick realized that there was going to be some sensational testimony before the case was over—testimony that would likely enough make him writhe. He planned to steel himself against this.

Sid Cavanaugh was greatly distressed when he found that he wouldn't be able to leave the hospital the next day. Lawyer Rogers visited him but there wasn't much to tell as to what had transpired in court.

"Nissinger is sick," Rogers said, suddenly recollecting that this was the important thing he had to discuss with Sid.

"Sick? That's too thin to go—yank him into court when time comes, put a guard over him or something, so he won't sneak out on us."

"I'm afraid it isn't bluff. Dr. Hayden tells me it is really serious—heart trouble. He can't be seen and any excitement——"

"Can't be seen? It's just a game, a dirty trick, Rogers!"

"No—both Doctor Hayden and Dr. Jordan agree. He has a day and night nurse."

"He's got to die to prove to me that he's sick at all. I'll be out of here tomorrow and see what I can do about it," Sid declared.

The testimony of the medical examiner was of a nature that couldn't be published in the papers, although some of them hinted so broadly at it that it wasn't difficult to guess.

Summed up briefly, it was to the effect that the girl, Ethel Simmons, had been attacked. Rogers made no attempt to break down this testimony other than to get an admission from Medical Examiner Evans that might eliminate the criminal part of it.

To Dr. Warner, Medical Examiner Evans and the undertaker Lawyer Rogers put about the same questions in regard to any mark being noticeable on the body.

At first the medical examiner, in reply to Rogers' question—"Did you notice any marks on the body?"—answered that he had noticed "none that were unusual."

For effect, Rogers let him go for the moment. Doctor Warner and the undertaker both testified to seeing the letter N tattooed over the girl's heart.

Recalled by Rogers to the stand, Medical Examiner Evans admitted seeing the tattoo mark.

"Tattoo marks are quite common—not at all unusual," he declared, irritably.

That was stricken out. Rogers hadn't asked for his opinion.

There is no doubt but what District Attorney Kingsley knew considerably about the double life Ethel Simmons had been leading and knew that an attempt would be made to prove this at the trial, as a means of breaking down the state's claim that the girl died fighting to save her honor.

At 2 p.m. he introduced a number of character witnesses who told of her activity in church work, of her general reputation as a beautiful and pure-minded Christian girl.

Sid Cavanaugh had come from the hospital at this time. There had been no skull fracture, as first feared, and he was about normal, save for a mighty sore spot where the scalp had been cut by the blow of "Musty" Connors.

Dick Walter smiled, for the first time since the trial started, when he saw Sid. This cheered him immediately.

Sid listened to the good character testimony with no attempt to hide his expression of disbelief in it. Dick wrote on a slip of paper for Sid:

"Harve Mellon of South st. once told me he saw her at the lake with N."

Sid nodded. He would hunt this chap up. He might have some helpful information.

When the session was adjourned Sid had a few minutes talk with Walters before he was taken back to jail. Then he went to see Cicily.

"It is too early, yet, to know how the jury is being impressed," he told her.

"If hopes and wishes and thinking and prayer could help Dick—I'd save him, Sid—"

She paused and shook her head. Something had made her lose courage. As a matter of fact she hadn't had much courage, hadn't been very hopeful right from the start

"I'm doing all possible—that crack on the head delayed me two days, you know."

"Yes, I read about it."

Cicily was staring out of the window. Sid studied her carefully. She was changed. Something had come over her. She hadn't mentioned the injury to him, she hadn't said she was sorry or asked him how he was getting along. Sid was terribly depressed over the situation.

He didn't see Dick's mother. She wasn't seeing anyone, these days, but remaining in her room all the time. When he bid Cicily good night she merely nodded and did not go to the door with him or even get up from her chair.

Sid was going to try and investigate the Nissinger "sickness." Naturally, he didn't believe a word of it. It would be silly for him to call and make inquiries. He intended to reconnoitre and was driven to a street that ran along the rear of the handsome grounds surrounding the house in the outskirts of the city.

He entered at this place and went up through the ornamental shrubbery, in hopes that by the time it got dark he might see Nissinger through some of the windows and try and judge for himself how much "heart trouble" he had.

Not Quite Dark

It was not quite dark. Sid crossed a patch of lawn, walked around a trimmed boxwood and almost ran into Mrs. Nissinger.

Sid knew her at once. He had met her as a reporter when she was Nina Paxton. For once he was very much embarrassed. He had not suspected that a bench was on the other side of the boxwood, much less that a person he didn't care to see would be sitting there.

She looked up at him and recognized him.

"You are Mr. Cavanaugh of the newspaper, aren't you?" she said.

Sid admitted it and murmured something about taking a short cut across to the house to see how Mr. Nissinger was.

"I—" she hesitated a moment. "I can truthfully say that he is just the same." She took a step nearer to him and lowered her voice.

"Mr. Cavanaugh," she said, "won't you tell me why my husband is afraid he will be mixed up in this Richard Walters murder trial?"

To Be Continued Tomorrow

Testimony Opens

It had taken so long to complete the drawing of jurors that the second day of the trial was nearly over when the State Officer Robbins began to tell his story.

He related without color the coming of Walters, who wanted a doctor, because his girl friend had fallen on the rocks.

What can be done with Life Insurance

(3) Planning an Income for Old Age

SOONER or later all must lay down the implements of active work and realize. Who would not like to feel that the declining years would be spent in assured comfort, however long that period of his life might be?

We need to think actively along these lines,—to plan constructively and to lay aside funds regularly with the definite purpose in mind of having sufficient income at that time to take care of ourselves adequately. The leisure period of life should not find us unprepared.

The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company offers Life, ENDOWMENT or ANNUITY contracts adjustable to your circumstances and in fact ready to help solve at least a portion of the retirement problem.

Easier Menus to Help Out on Christmas

From Martha Lee's Monday Morning Broadcast Over Station WEEI.

CHRISTMAS IS all too often anything but a day of pure joy for mother, with the family looking forward to an orgy of merry feasting. Especially will her burden be a heavy one if guests in the form of friends or relatives are being entertained. On the whole, arranging menus for the holiday season is an interesting task, and if planned well ahead, should present but very little difficulty. Even week-end house-parties may be planned and organized so that the hostess may spend plenty of time with her friends with a free mind.

Martha Lee

Christmas dinners are usually conventional meals, and breakfasts, in this day and age, take care of themselves; supper parties provide the most fun of all, and if the guests are invited to share in the work, a good time is assured for all, with equal work and play.

If most households, the night before Christmas is a hectic scramble of last-minute preparations—there are belated packages to wrap, wreaths to hang and all sorts of errands to be accomplished.

One of the best aids to short cuts is having your menu planned ahead for each of the meals, so that you know just what you have to do with, and there is no last-minute racking of brains to stretch the food to its farthest inch.

A good solid Christmas dinner may be planned as follows, with a supper menu if desired:

CHRISTMAS DINNER
Shrimp Cocktail
Roast Turkey with Sausage Dressing or Roast Goose with Potato Stuffing
Pickled Crab Apples
Parsley and Potato Croquettes
Giblet Gravy
Peas and Carrots
Baked Hubbard Squash
Cranberry Relish
Mince Pie with Cheese
Nuts, Candies and Coffee

Another less expensive dinner may be worked out as follows:

Clear Vegetable Soup
Crown Roast (Lamb or Pork)
Sweet Potato Stuffing
Sauted Pineapple Rings
Mashed Potato
Creamed Cauliflower
Hot Biscuits Currant Jelly
Mince Pie Coffee Nuts

Simple supper menus are in order, and I have prepared one or two that might solve the question of what to give them that won't be too heavy.

CHRISTMAS NIGHT SUPPERS
Scalloped Celery with Mushrooms or Chopped Poultry
Hot Biscuits Cider Ice
Sponge Cake Coffee Salted Nuts

Cider ice. This is made by cooking together 2 cups of sugar, 6 tbsp. of lemon juice and 1 cup of water, until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Add this to 2 quarts of cider and freeze.

Or still another menu:

Creamed Shrimp with Green Peppers on Toast Points
Bread and Butter Strips
Fruit Salad Cakes Coffee

Fruit Salad: Mix together chopped apples and grapes cut in halves and blended together with mayonnaise diluted with whipped cream. Arrange this around or over half of a preserved peach in a nest of lettuce or on a bed of shredded lettuce. Garnish with mayonnaise.

Faithfully yours,

Martha Lee

Use a grape basket for clothespins, with a wire hook fastened to the handle, or sew a wire hook on the clothespin bag; this will save much time when hanging out clothes: it can be pushed along the line and is always handy for use.

For Bleaching Faded Dress

To bleach a faded wash dress entirely white, boil it in two gallons of water; let settle, then pour off the clear solution; this is enough for two barrels hard water.

Pineapple Ice Box Cake Is Delicious for Holiday

SOAK GELATIN in cold water, then dissolve in hot water and add fruit, sugar, salt and lemon juice.

LINE CAKE mold with lady fingers or fingers of sponge cake and cover bottom of your pan.

FOLD CREAM into slightly thickened gelatin mixture, and pour into mold, alternately placing more fingers.

SET IN ICE BOX three or four hours, unmold and garnish with whipped cream and decorate with fruits.

Ice Box Cake Wins Prize

This week's $5 goes to Mrs. A. G. Fletcher, 724 Washington st., Brighton, for her Ice Box Cake.

PINEAPPLE ICE BOX CAKE
1 tsp. Knox Gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ can S. S. Pierce crushed pineapple or other fruit
Pinch of Worcester salt.
½ cup Domino sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice
½ cup Hood's cream
Enough lady fingers to fill ice box cake mold.

Put lady fingers or sponge cake around mold and on bottom. Soak the gelatin five minutes in cold water. Dissolve over hot water and add fruit, sugar, salt, and lemon juice. Stir until all the gelatin and sugar have dissolved. When it begins to thicken beat and fold in the cream. Pour the cream mixture into the lined mold, alternating the cream with more cake or lady fingers until the mold is full. Let stand in refrigerator three or four hours, unmold and garnish with whipped cream.

Nice Dessert for Holiday

After the turkey, or goose, with all the fixin's has done his part to cheer the Christmas table, who can you think of that will be a little unusual for dessert? If you haven't settled that question yet, won't you let me make a suggestion? It's what the Lee family is going to get, and I'm sure you'd like it, too.

My suggestion is, one of those luscious, lovely ice cream cakes which I've spoken of so often in the school, and which we have had demonstrated on the platform so many times by the manufacturer that the different parts from these Christmas cakes are decorated especially for Christmas with chiming bells and wreathing ribbon, and a large "Merry Christmas" gayly blazoned on its top.

As you know, this ice cream cake is made of pure, sweet ice cream, frozen all over with whipped cream, and then trimmed beautifully, packed in a box with dry ice, all ready to be taken out and eaten at the psychological moment. The large cake serves 10 to 14 people, and cost only $2.50. A smaller cake, serving eight people, costs $2.

Can you think of a nicer and less expen ive dessert than this? If you haven't guessed the cake's name, just call Martha Lee's office, and well gladly tell you where to place your order.

Judicious Use of Spices Is Big Help

Such a glorious host of good things made of "sugar and spice and everything nice" and such tempting odors floating from the kitchen warn us there ahead that Mr. Diet will flee for the wide open spaces until after holiday festivities.

To be absolutely sure that your Christmas cakes and sauces are properly seasoned, let me remind you to lean heavily on the spice box and be sure your spices are pure, old-time favorites of Martha Lee and her choice follows:

The judicious use of spices in food is a helpful aid to appetite and digestion and the judicious choice of spices insures delicacy and flavorful goodness in your food.

Yuletide Spirit Necessary in Decorating Table

Next to the stockings and Christmas tree the Christmas dinner embodies the Yuletide spirit. Suggestions that will carry the festive note to the table would seem to be in order and I pass a few along for your inspiration.

Appropriate for any Christmas table is a small Christmas tree, covered with tinsel ornaments, silver stars and silver rain and little toys. A round, wooden base is covered with cotton and surrounded by a wreath of holly. A five-point set star of holly conceals inexpensive flat holders for six red candles. The star can be made as large or as small as you need for your table.

The children would adore a miniature snow-scene, where Santa Claus, driving his eight reindeer and with a bag of toys in his sled, catches tiny doll-children unawares as they make a cotton snow-man and cotton-snow balls. Bits of dry moss are used for bushes and trees. Inexpensive wax fruit painted with gold and silver paint, heaped high in a gold compote and garnished with sprays of laurel, makes a rich looking centerpiece for a more formal table. The fruit would look equally effective in a brass or copper bowl or one of richly colored pottery.

At Christmas Feast

You will save yourself time, steps and bother in your search for just the right touch with which to dress up the Christmas feast if you harken to my words of wisdom! In a certain store I know—and a little phone call will tell you who and where—I found such delicacies as Anchovy paste for 25c a tube; sharp Coon cheese for 45c per lb.; real English plum pudding from England for 85c and $1.50 a bowl.

A visit to this store is a journey through a land of delicacies which have been gathered from all the world for you. A quick telephone call to Martha Lee's office will tell you where to find these goodies.

Stores Offer Bargains

Never before has your money been worth so much in the stores as it is this Christmas time! Think of almost anything you want to buy for relatives or friends, and you're almost sure to find it at the price you want to pay—or even less. And best of all every dollar you spend helps some of those unfortunates out of work for so long.

Just as an instance of some of the lovely things you can buy this year for so little money: As I pushed my way through crowded stores this noontime I simply had to stop and admire the beautiful silk umbrellas of the lovely Gloria cloth that looks like silk and wears even better, 16 ribbed, with the adorable stubby handles in round or straight devices for—just imagine! Only $2.69.

Who remembers when we couldn't think of buying an umbrella for less than $7.50, and that was considered economical. Or darling, warm slippers for everyone in the family from baby bunting to Big Boy himself—quilted slippers for Grandma, gay feathered mules for big sister and smart kid Oxfords for the professional lady of the house who likes to be snugly shod. None of them over $3, and some as low as $1.

To say nothing of lovely, lustrous rayon nighties and undies soft and ever so colorful for only $1.

And never have the shops blazed with lovely jewelry as they do this year. And so inexpensive. Jewelry will always be, to my mind, the one perfect gift. If your family and friends "have everything," then the one additional thing is a pendent, or a wrist watch or a ring.

And don't forget the chain stores are well stocked with goodies for the Christmas feast—good cheer for the table and good news for the purse!

$375—Dresses—$6.75

A friend of mine needed a dress and wanted to know one shop where she could get the most for her money. I sent her to the NEW YORK DRESS MFG. CO., which specializes in Sample Dresses. They have just two famous prices —$3.75 and $6.75, made to sell for 3 and 4 times as much—and the sizes range from a 12 to a 60, including half sizes. If you can duplicate one of these dresses elsewhere at the same price you may have the dress FREE. Refunds and exchanges within 5 days, if tags are not removed. Twenty private dressing rooms at the NEW YORK DRESS MFG. CO., 515 Washington St., 2nd Floor. This is their ONLY store.

Where for Ties!

To Nickerson's, The Haberdasher, Tremont st., where searching for masculine gifts can make you want to "end it all" but before you reach the desperation stage go to Nickerson's. For they have been observed the likes and dislikes of men and boys for years. You'll find a wonderful selection of linen—the kind a man buys for himself—at only $1.50. Others to $5. Nickerson's is fairly crammed with gifts of unfailing masculine appeal—Beautiful broadcloth shirts from $2.99 up. Glorious mufflers $3.50 to $10. Pajamas from $2.50 up. Wool mixtures, pure silk or lisle hosiery at $1 and up. Nickerson, The Haberdasher, Two stores—315 Washington St., and 104 Boylston St.

Hello Everybody!

Wiggin Clearance, Dresses $9.95! This is Miss Wiggin introducing—A Christmas message full of cheer—and she says it with values! For Miss Wiggin is having a sale.

One of those beautiful sales to overflowing—clear her racks and help us secure room for her "after" dresses at a cut price! And when Miss Wiggin has a sale it's one of those sales that stamps it like a seal and swings around the goal posts miles ahead of most sales you hear about. Frocks formerly $15—$18.50—$20.50—even a few that were $35 are now One Price, $9.95! Chiffons, flat crepes, georgettes and woolens. Frocks for afternoon, business and sports all at $9.95. Twenty-five summer frocks that would be wonderful for southern wear are marked at $6.95. The Wiggin Hat & Gown Shop, 3rd floor, 26 West St.

Have You Seen the Sansevierria Plants

potted in Japanese bowls and miniature Japanese gardens? I suppose you have, Anna, for they're as popular now! I saw some delightful ones marked at only $1.95 in Filene's Oriental Shop on the second floor—just at the head of the escalator. I put a little black check mark beside four of my "problems" the moment I saw these. They're really most unusual and charming gifts. Graceful decorations for the dining table—the window sill or end table. Whatever would we do in the winter without a few of these wonderful gifts of nature to tend and watch? And it's surely wonderful for the children to see the miracle of growing things every day! The Sansevierria plant requires very little sunshine —it's a sturdy little plant that will live for two years—it needs to be watered but twice a week. A cheerful gift with its gay Japanese garden scenery. You'll adore the gayly colored bowls with the quaint little bridges and birds of that cherry blossom land. There are larger plants in beautiful bowls priced at $4 —$5 and $8. You'll also find Christmas trees on the second floor—near the Oriental Shop. Living Christmas trees that you can plant next spring! Santa himself couldn't bring a finer tree. They're sturdy Norway spruce, growing in brightly painted tubs. We're going to have two—we'll decorate one with ornaments for the living room—and one with electric lights for the lawn. The prices are $1.65 and $2. You'll find them near Filene's Oriental Shop on the second floor—just at the head of the escalator.

Christmas—the Great

"Home Day" is with us again. How eagerly we look forward to seeing our happy families gathered 'round the festive board. For such is tradition as a bounteous table and in the center flickering candle sticks. Bates & Yerxa have a new idea for table decorations of leaved wreaths of pungent evergreen with red bows and gilded pine cones—a "Woolsey" bit of decoration as a nosuer for your Christmas candle. They're only $1.50, complete with red candle. They also have beautiful wreaths to place on the grave of some dear one who has passed on. These are also $1.50. Oh yes—you mustn't forget to tell you about the gorgeous Jerusalem cherry plants for only 69c. Cobb, Bates & Yerxa, 65 Summer St.

PATHETIC SCENES GREET CHRISTMAS BASKET BEARERS

Store Men Toil All Night to Get Mountain of Gifts Ready for Needy Families, Some Who Had Naught to Eat

ways Christmas and where there's always enough to eat.

The child's joy quite overwhelms her mother. And Bill Tompkins of Charlestown—well, Bill doesn't take it much better. It's the first Christmas basket he ever delivered. Bill has to dodge this accolade. He just waves his hand in a hasty good-bye and hurries out.

DRIVER TOUCHED

"Merrie Christmas, mister."

The tot's heartfelt wish trails him down the street.

"Huh, I never thought I'd have to harden myself to seein' happiness," says Bill to the reporter at his side.

Bill is one of the A. & P. drivers. These shock troops of happiness started deliveries yesterday. Today the Economy Stores and the First National Stores began their deliveries, and the work will keep on unremittingly, until the last cent is spent for good things for the poor and needy, and the last deserving family is cared for.

All last night workmen were packing baskets for the Economy Stores at 491 D st., South Boston. Packing started early this morning at the First National Stores warehouse on Middlesex st., Somerville.

It is a tremendous task getting the baskets packed, arranging for fresh bread and turkeys to go in at the last minute, sweeping up and down the city with deliveries, but without a letup it will keep up until the charity of the many givers has gone home to the hearts of the poor and the children.

Day and night, dispelling gloom. And there's still a chance to help, if you want to.

The first delivery truck of all, Bill Tompkins at the helm, sped away from 2223 Washington st. with 100 baskets on its initial trip.

CHILDREN CHEERED

Two stops were made on Sterling st., Roxbury, and by the time Bill Tompkins got to his third stop, on Eustis st., at the home of Mrs. Lillian Gayton, he thought he knew what to expect. Once more a surprise was in store for him. It's a different story, you see, at every home.

Scooting ahead of him he saw two little boys, Donald, 2, and Jimmy, 4, children of Mrs. Gayton. The rest were in school. They ran into the house and came out with their mother.

Their eyes opened wide when they saw the basket coming up the walk toward them.

"They thought it was going in the next house," explained their mother. "They got me out just to see it."

The two little boys gazed silently until the basket was laid on the kitchen table and then they dashed over and inspected the contents. For the next few minutes they talked of nothing but turkey.

"I guess they won't have a story to tell the other kids when they get home from school!" said Bill to Mrs. Gayton.

At the next stop, nearby on Eustis st., Mrs. Lillian Mahan touched her eyes with a handkerchief, sank into a chair and said she hadn't believed her hopes would come true.

"It means so much to the children," she said. "I was trying so hard to make them forget this Christmas altogether, and to look forward to a brighter time next year. Oh, they'll be so happy, the poor things."

ILL IN COLD HOUSE

On Hubbard ter. there was Mrs. Helen Davis, in bed with her baby boy, three months old, to keep him warm, for he has pneumonia and there is no fuel in the house. Bed covers were scanty. Her husband was out looking for work.

Every house told a different story of need, a different story of a new-found happiness. If everyone who has helped and who will feel in the short time left could see the transformation, could see real, tangible, gilt-edged Christmas cheer invading a dismal home, that would be more than enough reward for a thousand such deeds of kindness.

Glowing coals for your memory forever more.

Four rooms for mother, father and nine children is the story in a house in the rear of 19 Clark st., North End. Mary, Lucy and Annie, Jack, Lena and Michael, Tony, Rose and John—all waiting for Christmas.

"Is our basket coming?"

BREAD AND SOUP FARE

Lucy, 17, speaks for her mother:

"Dad's been out of work for weeks and can't find anything. He's out now looking. Once in a long while he finds work for a day, but that doesn't help much.

"Mary got a job packing for the Christmas trade in a candy factory. That's $13 a week while she's working, but it won't last long. Annie's gone to work just today for a flower shop at $7 a week. That's big money to us, but there are 11 of us.

"We've got four rooms, but how we're going to pay the rent all winter, dad doesn't know. We're just hanging on, eating bread and butter and sometimes soup, and the house is always cold. That basket is the centre of all the children's hopes for Christmas. They haven't anything else to look forward to."

A knock at the door and there comes the basket. North End, South End, South Boston, Cambridge, Somerville, Roxbury, Dorchester—up and down the city the delivery vans rush. Christmas is coming. Thanks to kind hearts, it will be a day of cheer.

16,000 PLATES OF FINE SOUP

More than 16,000 plates of soup made of vegetables packed in dehydrated form, are included this year in the Boston Evening American's Christmas baskets.

The packages of dehydrated soups are the products of the Minit Foods Co. of Philadelphia, with Boston offices at 99 State st., and each package of the novel food contains sufficient for several plates of soup.

By a new process that retains all the flavor and food qualities of the product, the water is taken from the vegetables, leaving only the powdered form.

These powders are packed in envelopes only three inches by two inches in size. When water and sometimes milk are added and the whole heated, the soups are ready for the table.

In the Christmas baskets, in dessicated form, are cream of carrot soup, cream of spinach, cream of beet, tomato soup and other varieties.

DELMONT WILL DINE 250

An earnest effort to aid needy and deserving families will be made Christmas Day by Al Delmont, former bantamweight boxer, owner of Delmont's cafe, 85 Friend st.

Appeals submitted to the Boston Evening American from needy families will be honored at Delmont's cafe on Thursday at 12 o'clock noon. It is Delmont's desire that only families take advantage of his offer.

The restaurant will seat about 250 people, and Delmont's two chefs will labor most of the night.

"I have been requested to give food on so many occasions during this winter by unfortunate men that I decided that this dinner idea was the best way to handle the situation," said Delmont today.

The Boston Evening American, in co-operating with me on the dinner, is performing another of the public services for which it is noted."

ETHEL BARRYMORE in black face! What a torch for the imagination! And yet, in all its grim realities, "Scarlet Sister Mary," turned out to be rather fancy theatrical fare at the Wilbur last evening and gave Miss Barrymore exactly what she wanted—something new, something daring. How well the lady brought herself into good tune with the occasion was reflected in the attitude of her first night audience. It accepted her without a quiver—met her more than half way in what may easily be set down as the most hazardous of her long list of friendly contests with authors and their wares.

AND THERE WERE bunkers and traps at every turn in the grands dame of a Somerset Maugham drawing room drama may not affect the role of a South Carolina Negress without some danger; nor may she venture into Gullah dialect without doing desperate chances in the matter of accent and effect upon what is generally termed audience interest. Miss Barrymore made rather easy work of her most pressing difficulties and it is certain that no matter how defective the dialect may have been, it fell softly upon the straining ear. This play by Daniel Reed is a dramatization of Julia Peterkin's novel, which in its own right, stepped nimbly into the best-seller class over night. It is the story of a young Negress betrayed and deserted, and stresses her own pathetic solution of how to get along in life.

Nicholas Young

IF SI MAY-E (Miss Barrymore) was a thorn in the flesh of the righteous of her community she helped keep it alive by industry in the home as well as in the fields. She raised many children by various fathers and found consolation in it. Her quaint philosophy on motherhood and how to go about it shocked most of the neighbors, but did not frighten off eligible young darkies from regions about. The sins of Si May-e, somehow, did not seem so dreadful as you became better acquainted with the character. She was a gentle soul; she loved children and wanted them. And she got them.

NATURALLY, in the end, this emotional creature went back to the fold of her little church at the cross roads. The death bed of her first born, 20 years later, led Miss Barrymore into her one burning speech. It was an open appeal for salvation but a declaration that she had been asked to repent into the Holy Temple. It was here that the real character of Si May-e was fully revealed; it was here that Miss Barrymore rose high above her darkened skin, her dingy quarters and all the sins of the evening and became again the Barrymore of ringing voice, of clear diction—the artist always at ease in any situation.

IF THIS WAS Miss Barrymore's first venture into these pastures as a dusky maiden of Carolina, it was also the first appearance here of her daughter, Ethel Barrymore Colt, who donned a little tan for a few simple scenes. In the supporting company Beatrice Terry, Estelle Winwood, Georgie Drew Mendum, Walter Gilbert and John Rosleigh contributed ample reserve power for their hard working star. And all of them in black face.

Reginald Denny is a big stockman now. He has imported a herd of fine English cattle to his California ranch, and plans to establish the breed in California.

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

THE PREMIERE AT RKO-KEITH'S tomorrow of "Hook, Line and Sinker," offers an excellent preparation for the holiday mood. Robert Woolsey and Bert Wheeler, aided by that big lady of pictures, Jobyna Howland, provide a nifthquake to put one in a jolly good humor for the jingle-bells of Christmas, and the ring-out-wild bells of New Year's, too.

THE MOVIE PURVEYANCES the best satire we have yet seen on the long run of gangland films. Generally, Messrs. Woolsey and Wheeler are not tied down by story limitations; any old vehicle will suffice. But now these two comic worthies have something far superior to their last production. They start in as insurance salesmen who become side-tracked to hotel business through a chance meeting with Jobyna Lee, whose wealthy Dad has put a cobwebby hostelry in her Yuletide stocking. The task: determine to rehabilitate the place. Among the guests are two gangs of crooks, each seeking the contents of the hotel safe. They are loaded with everything from machine guns to dynamite, and their "war" fairly riddles the gangster films with satirical ridicule.

Robert Woolsey

The comedians have fewer "gags" than usual, and much more punning. But the things they do are in general very funny, especially their stunts with the hotel sofa and the table during the gangsters' crossfire. The sequence with the stick of dynamite is highly amusing, also Hollywood's long-drawn-out and all-too-devoted attention to crook pictures is unceasingly travestied; everything is in sportive mood, so critical strictures may be easily handled. Ralf Harolde is miscast, and Miss Lee is only physically fair. George Marion, Sr., gets all he can out of a small part, and Natalie Moorehead has an equally small chance.

Loew's Orpheum

"Passion Flower" will have its Boston premiere at Loew's Orpheum Friday.

"The dead pan" comedian, Bert Gordon, is to be the vaudeville headliner. Others on the bill are: Raye, Ellis and LaTuc; Fred Ketch and Edith Wilma, comedy pair; Adela Verne, woman pianist, and La Fleur and Portia, equilibrists.

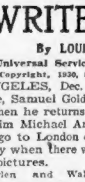
GOLDWYN SIGNS ARLEN TO WRITE FILM STORY

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor
Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22—With a reckless disregard for cable expense, Samuel Goldwyn sends a long message to let us know that when he returns to this country, January 22, he will bring with him Michael Arlen and Walter Hackett. Sam was supposed to go to London on a vacation but Sam just couldn't take a holiday when there was anybody on hand who would discuss motion pictures.

Michael Arlen and Walter Hackett collaborate on an original Arlen play called "What Fun Frenchmen Have." Sam is perfectly justified in importing any expensive talent he sees fit after Ronald Colman's picture, Everywhere I Go I hear someone who has had an advance look at this picture giving it plenty of applause. Douglas Fairbanks says it is even better than Frederick Lonsdale's play. And Doug ought to know, since he made a very, very good picture himself in "Reaching for the Moon."



Louella O. Parsons

CERTAINLY the only rivals the motion pictures have are football and golf. Good, honest sports interest nearly every young man and woman in America. Irving Thalberg realized that when he decided to make a series of sports comedies. His first will star Leo Diegel. You remember Leo Diegel, golf champion. His comedy very appropriately will be called "Fore." Dudley Murphy will direct it. Others in the cast are Johnny Mack Brown, Dorothy Jordan and Cliff Edwards. You can see Mr. Diegel is going to have the best that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer can give him in the way of a supporting cast.

BEAUTIES ON HOWARD BILL

There is an abundance of pretty girls at the Old Howard this week. Evelyn Meyers, known as the "Vampire Baby," introduces a number of dancing steps. She is a fast moving little miss with pep and plenty of it. The burlesque card is "Let's Go," with George Douglas and Billy (Bumps) Mack, who keep things going at a merry pace. There will be two midnight shows this week, one tomorrow, Christmas Eve, and another on Friday, as a special dance to Miss Meyers.

In the continuous part of the bill one of the big hits was the Kid Chocolate-Battalino fight film form. The Pasquale Brothers in an acrobatic specialty was enjoyed and John Quigg, the accordion king, scored a hit.

'MOROCCO' ON TWO SCREENS

Gary Cooper plays the leading role in "Morocco," now current at the Fenway and Scollay.

Playing opposite Cooper is Marlene Dietrich, making an auspicious debut on the American screen. Also featured in an important role is the debonair Adolphe Menjou, who returns to the screen after an absence of nearly a year.

"Morocco" is a vivid story of love that sweeps an adventurer and a beautiful woman of the world into a whirlpool of fate.

"Strictly Dishonorable" Opens Thursday Night

Brock Pemberton's popular comedy, "Strictly Dishonorable," will begin its Boston engagement Christmas night at the Colonial

Affection

WALTER WOOLF AND VIOLET HEMING

"LADIES ALL" opens tonight at the Majestic and it brings Walter Woolf and Violet Heming back to a Boston stage.

Wallace Beery is worried. He'll have to wear a dress suit for days in "The Secret Six" and says that tying a bow tie is an hour's ordeal to him. He wouldn't have a valet, though, for any money.

"SISTERS OF FAVORITES AT THE CHORUS" AT LYRIC

Broadway—what it means to the chorus girl—was unfolded last night at the Lyric in a story of comedy, rackets and love. "Sisters of the Chorus" is different. It's a play that shows a love even deeper than that of kid rises through a Babel of jealousies, sham loves and real loves that are bound to develop away from the glitter of the stage.

Enid Markey

The plot should not be told for the comedy holds the interest of the audience almost to the extent of a mystery with the inevitable "Daddy" the mysterious one who proves a real Daddy in a showdown. Petite Enid Markey plays the part—and plays it well —of the veteran chorine.

The villain, played by William C. Green as a racketeer, makes the usual move to spoil it all and meets the inevitable gunplay. Thelma Ritter is the comedienne, aided principally by Richard Brandon.

Caroline Crosby depicts another of the temperaments, the roommate who can't stop fighting. Charles Seal, as Barney Hutchinson, night club owner, performs admirably, and Joe Moran plays the role of a rising young song writer in love with the country sister.

FAVORITES AT SCOLLAY FOR HOLIDAY

Christmas week not only brings a fine vaudeville bill to the Scollay but also many favorites, former Locnonians, to that theater. Harry Lupino and Sidney Dorhan, in their first walk back to their home town in two years, received an ovation, and proceeded to stop the show, with a new sketch written especially for them by Fred Allen.

Mabel Albertson, who has been featured in pictures and in night clubs, sings, her Fanny Brice interpretation being especially well done. Incidentally, Miss Mabel is also a Bostonian. She is accompanied on the piano by Helen Pope.

Charlie Lane, another Bostonian, with his partner Freedman, provide more comedy to this well-balanced bill: Bennie Fairbanks, seemingly more popular than ever, concluded his engagement at the Scollay as master of ceremonies, after seven weeks.

The "Scollayettes," most expertly assisted by Frances Hart in "Hawaii" and by "Television," shine in their usual manner. Betty and Jerry Brown do well in number two spot, while Geauman, Hess and Vallee get the show off to a smart and swift start with clever dancing. Large and Morgner, recognized as one of the finest dancing acts in vaudeville, went over very big.

Loew's State

Opening at Loew's State Friday will be Joan Crawford's "Paid," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's talking adaptation of the celebrated Bayard Veiller play, "Within the Law."

Short features will include a new Boy Friends comedy, "Love Fever"; Burton Holmes' latest travel talk, "Into Morocco."

JOAN LEE HIT AT GAYETY

Joan Lee, the "personality girl," scored another triumph yesterday at the Gayety when she made her appearance as a special added attraction in addition to the "Novelties of 1930."

In addition to Joan Lee, there were several other stars who ran her a close second for honors. Jackie James, featured songstress of the "Novelties," was another to score a hit. Victoria Mann, Helen Carlson and Millard and Anita added to their laurels.

"Dance of the Rose" and "Garden of Girls" were the two big scenic effects. Helen Carlson proved an acrobatic star. Holub's Jazz Hounds had hot numbers for the show and stars to work with and the whole aped along with gusto.

In Old Boston—No. 441

Massachusetts Tercentenary, 1930

IN 1880 WHEN THIS PICTURE was made the Brighton Cattle Market was one of the big institutions of its kind in America. Every day a scene similar to this could be viewed on all the streets leading up to the abbatoir district. Herds of cattle numbering a thousand or more were driven through the streets. It was not an uncommon sight in the seventies to see a drove of a thousand sheep driven over Dover st. and through Berkeley and Beacon sts. to the Cattle Mart.—Another picture tomorrow.

DORCHESTER FAMILY ASKS FOR AID

A Dorchester mother of 13 children, the oldest 16 and the youngest six years old, has added her plea for food, clothing and fuel to the rapidly mounting pile of similar appeals to the Helping Hand Department from all sections of New England.

In this family, the 16-year-old girl is the only person working. The father has sought vainly for month to secure work. The children need nourishing food, warm clothing and shoes, the bare necessities of life.

Anyone wishing to aid this family may obtain the name and address by calling the Helping Hand department of the Boston American at Liberty 4000. Refer to case 147.

MOTHER'S PLEA
(Refer to Case 147)

I am the mother of 13 children. Two are married. I have nine at home, the oldest is 16 and the youngest is six. The girl, 16 is the only one working and it will be hard for me to buy even the Christmas dinner. My husband has not been working for some time. I wish there could be some one to give them all a nice dinner and I would be very grateful for one warm clothing, as they all need shoes and warm sweater. If you could kindly help me to help them happy. I will be more than grateful to you.

This woman lives in Dorchester. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 147.

11 NEED CLOTHING
(Refer to Case 148)

My brother has written a letter asking for your help because there are 11 children in my house and my mother is expecting stork at the end of March. We wrote before saying that my father was working three or four days a week but now he isn't working at all. I am asking for your help as we need it very bad. Could you send a few clothes for my brothers as they need it anything would do as I know my mother will be very pleased. Please don't forget to send a Christmas basket as well be disappointed if we don't get one.

This woman lives in Cambridge. Anybody wishing to help may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 148.

MOTHER ASKS BASKET
(Refer to Case 149)

I am writing to ask you for a Christmas basket. I have nine children and none of them working. I would be very thankful for any little help you could give.

This woman lives in South Boston. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 149.

GIRL ASKS FOR FOOD
(Refer to Case 150)

I am 13 years old and I want to help my mother, but I am not old enough. My father is getting old now and not very strong and doesn't work much. Will you please surprise my mother with a basket for us, as she has nine children. The oldest one is my sister who is only 16 years.

This girl lives in Roxbury. Anybody wishing to aid may call the Boston American Helping Hand, Liberty 4000, and refer to Case 150.

Soviet Boosts Price to Curb Rum Supply

Moscow Dec 23 (AP) The Soviet Government is cutting down Russia's liquor supply. The increasing prices of vodka tell the story. The power that be are trying to make it more hard to get with the idea of ultimately the Soviet republic will do without alcoholic taste.

As one official views the situation:

"Sovietism and alcoholism do not go together. We must some day have a liquorless country."

TEN DRIVEN OUT BY WAKEFIELD FLAMES

Gracie Has Taken an Interest in Gigi

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Wilda Gardner, bookkeeper in a hardware store, is in love with Logan Townsend. He is no Adonis, Wilda thinks, but "he has a rare smile." Wilda's father dies and her mother, Gracie, becomes a different woman when the lawyers say the estate will amount to $100,000. She plans a trip to Europe. Wilda has a wonderful time at a house party where Logan asks her to marry him. Myrtle, who is determined to win Logan, turns up at the dock as Wilda honors steamer for Europe. Logan's leave-taking is affectionate. Gracie finds an admirer on board who later shocks her by saying he is married. She is glad to leave the steamer at the dock in France.

QUICKLY "Gigi" dispelled that impression. "If you will be my guest, it will give me such a . . . what you call 'keeck' in America!"

"You mean—right now?"

"Please, madame." His eyes were beautiful and pleading as they looked in hers. There was a luminous quality about them that was sheer magnetism.

"If my daughter will let me off? We were going sightseeing——"

"I will explain to her. I will feex it." And before she could stop him Mr. Gigi Cortes had glided—with that wonderful lithe movement of his—over to the inquiry desk.

Wilda Frowned
Cortes Explained to Her

She could see Wilda frown. But presently Wilda seemed to yield under the Latin intensity of Mr. Cortes' pleading.

The pair came over to Grace. Cortes was beaming.

"I haf explain to her that we have a leetle—what you call it?—half-and-half engagement . . ."

"I think you might have told me, mother——"

"Ah-h! I am not so important." This with a deprecatory wave of Gigi's hand. "Madame maybe have forgotten the appointment?"

Grace stood astonished and silent.

Her old-fashioned American unbringing had taught her that a fib was a fib—even a white one.

"Well, since you're bent on fooling me right fantastic I'll beat it," said Wilda. It seemed to her mother as though the glib deliberately spoke crude slanginess, as opposed to Cortes' meticulous English.

"I hate to see you go alone——"

"Like to Be Alone"
She Said to Gracie

"I like to be alone," Wilda lowered her voice to add pointedly. "You needn't be afraid I'll have a pickup." She emphasized the pronoun "I." She gave Cortes, who had turned aside at the moment, a swift, venomous look.

"Don't act that way. We must him quite conventionally. He's a gentleman, Wilda."

"All right. See you around six. Have a good time."

The Tzigano orchestra played a song of passionate intensity. The leader sang, with a tremble in his voice as though tears choked back. The violin wailed in sympathy.

Gracie Gardner moved over the polished floor under the guidance of that perfect male-professional, Mr. Gigi Cortes.

Nay more, she seemed to float as in a dream, with the arm of the handsome young Latin about her.

He moved so beautifully without effort. It was as though some hidden fount of energy informed his steps.

"Ah, madame, please relax. Let yourself go. Just leave it all to me . . . and to music . . ."

"That sound—poetic——"

"And when I am with you I think of nothing but poetry and sweet songs," rejoined Mr. Gigi quickly. He added naively: "You cannot blame me for that."

Grace flushed. "I only blame myself for being so awkward."

"Madame is wrong. When she haf danced with me a few times

Storm Handicaps Deliveries, but the Mountain of Letters and Parcels Is Fading Away

With a force of 7900 men divided into crews, in the general postoffice and 90 sub stations, efforts are being made to have every letter and parcel in the mails delivered before Christmas Day.

Assistant Postmaster William E Hurley so announced today, after making a canvass of the situation and checking up on reports from subordinates in the Boston postal district.

STORM A HANDICAP.

Confronted by an avalanche of letters, parcels, packages, greeting cards, money orders and special delivery mail, truck drivers and carriers, handicapped by the storm, did everything within their power to move the matter with clocklike regularity in the various stations.

Mail boxes in suburbs and in office buildings were jammed with letters, packages and papers necessitating extra men to clean them out for transfer to nearby postal stations to be stamped and sent to their destinations.

2500 EXTRA MEN.

The volume of business in some quarters this year climbed to new figures, it was stated.

Particularly was this true of parcel post. There was an apparent gain in the volume of first-class and registered mail. Stamps sales, however, was somewhat lower.

Of the 7900 men employed in the handling of the mail, 4200 are regular, 1200 are substitutes and 2500 extra from the unemployed heads of families given temporary work by reason of the setting aside of the civil service regulations, according to Assistant Postmaster Hurley.

Boston Legionnaires Fete Barrymores

BOSTON TASTE FOR DRAMA LAUDED

Ethel Barrymore Says New York Failed to Appreciate "Scarlet Sister Mary"

The stage is a hard life, but it's worth all it's hardships, according to little Ethel Barrymore Colt, who last night made her first professional appearance in a Boston theater.

"I thought I had seen all the struggling, all the disappointments of theatrical life when I made my debut to the theater in Columbus, Ohio, last September," said the youngest of the famous line of Barrymores.

"I'd seen them, but now I'm living them. And that brings them home to me in all their reality. ours is a hard life and, at times, a discouraging one. Sometimes it seems utterly futile. Oh—but the glory of it, the satisfaction that comes from trying—that's what makes it worthwhile.

REHEARSALS TEDIOUS

"Rehearsals, everlasting rehearsals; they are long and tedious But they're part of it, and there's a grind to everything as well as glory.

"Yes, it was my own choice to make my first appearance as Seraphine in 'Scarlet Sister Mary.' I thought it would be easier for me to work behind a black makeup. And besides, I like the play."

All the while her daughter was talking Ethel Barrymore looked on silently, fairly beaming with pride After Miss Colt had finished speaking, the reporter turned to the mother, thinking that she might make some comment on her daughter But no; she only looked with a gaze that seemed to reflect that famous saying of hers "That's all there is, there isn't any more."

But she was willing to talk about the theater and her play.

"Yes," she answered to a question, "I'm sure that Boston likes 'Scarlet Sister Mary' better than New York audiences did. For Boston people appreciate it better. They understand it, for they have made it their business to understand it

DIDN'T JUDGE PLAY

"People in New York who didn't like the play were stupid. They were not judging the play at all. They only thought to themselves, 'We don't want Ethel Barrymore to do a negro role, we're not going to like her in it.' And per-

LAWS TO END "BABY FARMS" URGED IN REPORT ON STATE SURVEY

COMMISSION OFFERS 50 PROPOSALS

Would Create Special Court to Hear Domestic Relation and Family Cases

Laws on foster homes to combat "baby farms," specializing of domestic relations and family courts and a bar on marriages of the mentally ill were three of nearly 50 recommendations submitted to the Legislature today by the special commission on child laws.

The section on foster home would provide supervision by the public welfare department of children up to seven years of age, instead of limiting the age to two years, as at present.

A commission of five was suggested to consider the establishment of specialized courts on family troubles.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS

Other important suggestions are

That the juvenile delinquency age be raised from 17 to 18 years.

Increase in the scope of morals and law to include children up to 18 years. Act now in use on children up to 14 years of age.

Investigation of all petitions for the adoption of children under 14 so that the court will have full knowledge on desirability.

That a child under 14 must reside with the petitioner, for at least six months before adoption.

That advertisements in the public press for adoption be approved by the department of public welfare.

That proof of age be required to combat the evils resulting from child marriages.

Increase in court investigation facilities, especially in contested divorce cases in the interest of deciding the proper custody of children.

FOR PRIVATE HEARINGS

Extension of the privacy of hearings involving girls of juvenile court age, to more fully safeguard illegitimate and unfortunate children.

Elimination of all indications of illegitimacy from birth certificates of adopted children given new legal names.

Examination of any problem child upon the request of school authorities and parents.

Exclusion from juvenile court hearings of persons not directly interested in the case.

CHILDREN ON FARMS

While the laws regarding child labor on the whole were characterized as "excellent and well administered, the commission found certain defects which result in the exploitation of children.

This, it discovered, especially applied to children under 14 years, particularly those engaged in commercialized or industrialized agriculture, such as the tobacco and onion fields.

Reports of a federal survey are quoted to show that these children work eight hours and many ten hours a day. Complaints, the commission states, indicate that the work is done under excessive heat.

The commission also asks for both the moral hazards to which the young children are exposed and the dangers of [illegible]

FAY WILL FIGHT BARES RUM

COURT HEARS OF DRINKING AT HOME

Undue Influence Is Charged to Telephone Operator, Bequeathed $65,000

Testimony that Franklin L. Fay of Boston and Miss Mary E. Brenner, telephone operator, to whom he bequeathed $65,000, drank together when she visited him at his North Shore home, was given today in Suffolk probate court, where a sister is trying to break Fay's will.

At the time of his death in February 1928, Fay was in the employ of a mercantile agency. He was the scion of a family prominent for several generations in Back Bay society.

CHAUFFEUR TESTIFIES.

Oland C. Anderson, now of New York, testified he went to work as a chauffeur for Fay on June 19 1927, and asserted that at that time Fay was not working and was under the influence of liquor every day.

"He drank from unusually large glasses," testified Anderson. "I saw him drinking at a number of places, even while in the automobile.

"I often saw Miss Brenner at the Fay home in Magnolia and drove her to church on Sunday mornings. On those occasions Fay was under the influence of liquor, and I had seen Miss Brenner drinking with him at various times."

Anderson said Mrs. Frederick H. Annis of Hemenway st. also visited Fay at Magnolia and also at Fay's Boston residence on Boylston st.

DENIED ADMISSION

Mrs. Annis followed the chauffeur as a witness and testified to having made visits at Magnolia and Boston but she said when she called at his home at Magnolia about a week before his death she was denied admission.

The sister trying to break the will is Mrs. Ethel F. Ford, who alleges improper execution of the document, undue influence and unsoundness of mind. Miss Brenner, who is alleged to have exercised undue influence, lives on I st., South Boston.

'ARC' PROBLEM IS SOLVED

By Associated Press.

A method for trisecting an arc or dividing a circle, or a part of a circle, into any desired unit was revealed today by Prof. Herald A. Zager, head of the mathematics department at Boston College. George A. Hurd, a Boston manufacturer, was credited with originating the new method which was completed in collaboration with Prof. Zager.

Trisection of the arc is a problem that has puzzled generation after generation of students of geometry and mathematics. Bisecting an arc—cutting a curved line into two equal parts—was easy, but trisection was not.

Cutting the same curved line into three equal parts proved the stumbling block. However, various methods were evolved.

The methods, Prof. Zager said, have used the circle as the basis from which to work. The method worked out by himself and Hurd, he said, "is the only one using the square and angle only." He demonstrated the method by a few sweeps of the compass and the drawing of a few lines.

Zager and Hurd are reticent about exact proof and detail because they plan to have the method copyrighted. They assert that it has broad application in navigation, range-finding at sea, and even in astronomy.

Believing that the new method can be applied to determining any unit of an arc or circle accurately, Prof. Zager said that it was in respect the discovery was superior to previous methods of trisection. The older methods, he said, failed after a certain critical angle was reached.

"There is a human drama behind the announcement—the story of Hurd, a manufacturer, who was faced with the ambitions to solve this ancient problem, and who laid aside his business ten years ago to do it.

At length he evolved the present theory, based upon square and angle instead of the circle—a method in which the previous theory based upon the circle only, was reversed. He met Prof. Zager last fall, described his ideas and convinced the professor that he had achieved an important discovery. Together, they perfected the remaining details.

LEGION HEAD IS CALLED LIAR AT HEARING

Allen's Appointment for Special Justice in Roxbury Opposed

The lie was passed today before the governor's council at a stormy hearing on the appointment by Gov. Allen of Frankland W. L. Miles as a special justice of Roxbury court.

Representative John P. Connolly of Roxbury, one of two attempting to block confirmation of the appointment, called William Hassan commander of the Roxbury American legion post a liar.

Commander Hassan, who was one of about 30 persons appearing in favor of confirmation, had told the council, Lieut.-Gov. Youngman presiding, that Representative Connolly, in telephone conversation with him, had termed Miles a bigot.

CONNOLLY SHOUTS "LIAR"

"That man is not telling the truth. He's a liar," Representative Connolly shouted, springing to his feet.

Lieutenant-Governor Youngman rapped loudly for order and declared the Roxbury representative out of order. Hassan did not reply to the charge.

Rep Connolly said Hassan had telephoned him asking that he withdraw his objections to the appointment and that the Legion leader had expressed the opinion that Connolly's objections were based on religious grounds. This Connolly said, he had denied.

The council took no immediate action after hearing Connolly's objections and approving other nominees, including Miles' mother-in-law Judge Hayden of Roxbury court.

TELLS MILES' RECORD

In his attack on Miles, Rep Connolly declared:

"He is not fit to sit on the bench. He lacks ability, experience and judicial temperament.

He said Miles twice failed to pass the bar, that since being admitted to practice in 1926 he had maintained his law office in and had not been identified with any lawyer of experience, had never tried a jury case and never been before the Supreme court.

"He is playing with certain organizations in his district, and those who come here speaking for him will be from these organizations," the legislator said.

He then attacked the Roxbury court by saying:

"Many a boy has had a criminal record attached to him because of lack of justice in that court."

BOSTON BACKS MILES

He said the candidate had been before the court for infraction of auto laws and once was charged with disturbing the peace after an altercation with a policeman pointing to the claim in support of his charge that Miles was not of judicial temperament. Judge Ahearn and Judge Palmer had had occasion to rebuke him in court, he said he declared.

STARS PERFORM AT HOSPITAL

In the midst of the Christmas rush and excitement many unfortunates especially hospital patients, are apt to be overlooked when it comes to dispensing joy and happiness.

But such will not be so in the case of the some 1,000 patients in the Peter Bent Brigham hospital for at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow the Boston Evening American in conjunction with the management of the RKO Keith-Boston Theater is to present a complete vaudeville show at the institution.

The performance which will be made up of the choice acts on the week bill at the theater, when it was the scene of the Boston Evening American's recent Christmas Basket Fund Show, will be more than mere entertainment for many of the patients.

According to Supt. Cox and other officials at the hospital, to many of the patients the performance will be their first contact with the outer world in many months, and in some instances, many years.

Dave Apollon, one of the funniest stars in the boards today, will be present to wise cracks and make the patients forget their ills. Bernard and Henne, dainty dancers, whose art is scrupulous and harmonious, will have something new to offer as their contribution, according to Jay Emmett, manager of the RKO Keith-Boston Theater. And then there will be the humorous antics of Ed Fisher.

Cheer for Sick

THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN has not forgotten the sick in Boston's hospitals. Through the kindness of management of the Keith Boston Theater a grand show will be given tomorrow at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. The group includes Flo Henrie.

WIFE DIVORCES R. B. METCALF

Portland, Me., Dec. 23—Mrs. Mary Sewell Metcalf of Wiscasset was granted a decree of divorce from Rowe B. Metcalf, Boston and Providence yachtsman and financier and nephew of U. S. Senator Jesse H. Metcalf of Rhode Island, today in Superior Court who heard the case behind closed doors.

The decree was granted on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment, by Judge Herbert T. Powers.

Mrs. Metcalf, a member of the famous Sewall family of Wiscasset yacht builders, was given custody of the three children, Jesse H. 3rd, Rowe Browning and Mary Susan Metcalf.

It was specified the children must be educated in St. Paul's Academy, Concord, N. H. and Harvard. No property settlement was made Metcalf agreeing to pay for the education of the children and the upkeep.

They were married December 3 with the usual secrecy being observed the evening before by the Rev. Roger Sprague. After the hearing Mrs. Metcalf was escorted home in state by her father, Charles S. Sewall, principal of the Wiscasset high school.

The couple were married in Dover, N. H. June 19 1926. Metcalf is one of the late Marmon B. Metcalf's nephew, New Yorker. He is also the niece of Brandon C. Metcalf, reputed to be the heaviest taxpayer in Providence.

Oil Tank Hearing in Faneuil Hall

Youth may have its swing or rather fox trot, but tonight's the night for the old-timers to have their glides and waltzes.

For out in the Roseland Ballroom at Massachusetts ave. and Norway st., the old-timers will make merry at the Old-Timers' Ball.

And the best part of it is that the event is of double importance. The old-timers will have their fun and the Boston Evening American Christmas Basket Fund will reap the harvest.

By every admission fee, many needy families will be made happy on Christmas Day. Every penny paid will be expended for the needy.

It's going to be a gala affair, Dan Moriarty, manager of the Roseland Ballroom has taken care of that by attaining a series of contests in which the old-time dances and other favorite dances of days gone by will be in vogue again. The feature event will be the glide waltz.

McMullin's Orchestra, formerly at Crescent Gardens, will provide the music. In accordance with the general spirit of the affair, they have donated their services for the night.

So don't forget! Tonight's the big night. The place is the Roseland Ballroom. As the benefit ...

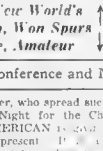
FANNING
WITH
George Underwood

George, New World's Champion, Won Spurs in College, Amateur ↕ and Olympic Fields Before Wrestling in Professional Ranks

Big Ten Conference and National Amateur Champ

Paul Bowser, who spread such a wonderful wrestling feast on Thanksgiving Night for the Christmas Fund of the BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN in Mechanics Bay State fans a real Christmas sporting present. It was a world's heavyweight wrestling championship match in which the newly-crowned champion, "Don" Ed George of the University of Michigan, conqueror of Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg, will defend his title against Bibber McCoy, the former Holy Cross collegian. Santa Claus Bowser will crawl down the chimney with the big match at the Arena on Christmas night, not Christmas Eve. He says good things are worth waiting for.



George Underwood

Ed George, new wrestling champion of the world, whose signed life story begins in the Boston Evening American today, is not a performing pachyderm. He is a real wrestler who has won his spurs in collegiate, amateur, Olympic and professional fields. Taking up wrestling under Dick Barker now wrestling coach at Cornell, during his freshman year at Michigan, the Herculean youngster rapidly mounted the ladder. He speared the college championship and then went out and captured the wrestling championship of the Big Ten Conference.

Entering the open amateur field George won the National Amateur Heavyweight Championship of America. His only defeat in amateur competition was on a questionable decision to the giant Swede, Richtoff, in the Olympic Games at Amsterdam. Leo Lermond the Boston A. A. distancer, and other sports stars who were at the poisoned Amsterdam tell us that the decision in Richtoff's favor was such an outrageous one that the gallery, which was anti-American, booked it for several minutes. When a gallery at a European Olympic meet boohs any decision against an American you can wager there's finally was something wrong with it.

The Michigan collegian was averse to entering the professional wrestling field. But one rainy day, when his spirits were low and sales bad, Jack Albright, the veteran wrestler, talked so enthusiastically over the gold to be mined in the professional wrestling hills that the $10 per week tire salesman decided to leave the ranks of the unemployed, athletics and take the trail of the great American dollar.

METEORIC RISE

George never has regretted his move. His success in the professional grappling field has been just as meteoric and brilliant as it was achieved in the amateur. He entered the professional field only a little more than a year ago, yet today, is heavyweight champion of the world. Ten thousand persons in the Olympic Auditorium, Los Angeles, saw him topple Gus Sonnenberg from the throne a fortnight ago, winning two falls after dropping the first to Dynamite Gus.

That George is a real champion is evinced by the fact that within two weeks after winning the highest honors attainable in grappling he comes East to defend his laurels in a match against no weather an opponent as Bibber McCoy.

The new champion was born Edward Ace Georges of French-Canadian parents in Batavia, N. Y., 23 years ago. For professional use he appeared as Ed George, but the wrestling fans gave him a nom de guerre of "Don Juan." He is a tall, splendidly proportioned Apollo with curly black hair and features the fair ones rave over. Before he became champion George was given a lead part in a Warner Brothers picture. In the film he appears as a champion facing his title. Everybodies that is the only way he will lose it for several years—in the films. Bibber McCoy has other thoughts.

The quiet young 220 pound 6 feet 1 inch former Michigan football player has the strength of a Hercules but he has brought brains to play on the mat and is known as one of the most scientific of modern grapplers.

FAVORS TWO HOLDS

He has a great repertoire of holds, but favors two.

One of them he calls the "Wolverine Slam." In it he feints an opponent into an opening and then takes a peculiar combination of a crotch and other arm, lifting an opponent and hurling him to the mat with terrific force.

George's other pet hold is a "flying head scissors."

That is a most difficult grip and took months to perfect. The champion takes it after inveigling an opponent into an opening and getting him off balance. George suddenly pivots in a leaping turn which enables him to wrap both legs around an opponent's neck in a side-like scissors. That leaves his arms free to do the rest.

George is a gentlemanly athlete, is not given to boasting of braggadocio and is always willing to give his opponent full credit. He is especially kind in his remarks about Gus Sonnenberg from whom he won the title.

"It really took me two matches instead of one to beat Sonnenberg," declared George. "Six weeks before I finally took two falls out of three from him and won the title Gus beat me in another match. That was the only match I lost in professional circles and the only one in which I lost on falls. When I beat the Olympic title to Richtoff it was on a decision. He did not throw me. His knowledge I gained of Sonnenberg's style and tactics in our first match enabled me to win the crown from him in our second encounter. In justice to my rival I will say that Gus was handicapped by torn ligaments in the shoulder and I took full advantage of it. That is all in the game."

HUB MAT CENTER

Boston is becoming the greatest wrestling town on the map

How grappling has grown since good old George Tuohey was promoting shows at the Old Arena, the Grand Opera House, the National and Columbia Theaters.

Tuohey was Boston's pioneer wrestling promoter. He built the foundations for the present success of the game here. Wrestling then was staged more as an entertainment than as a sport. It was in the exact middle grip of a "wrestling trust," and the performing pachyderms travelled from town to town and city to city under their set.

Remember how John Perelli and Toohey, who refereed the matches he promoted, used to "fight" over the use of the toe hold? Recall how Perelli used to toss Tuohey up against the ropes? Remember the night that they missed the ropes and poor George went hurtling out into the audience and received a broken leg? George Tuohey was a game 'un. You have to hand him that.

Tuohey also cured some of the performing pachyderms of their favorite stunt of agreeing to a big match here in Boston and then working their way here through a series of "one night stands" in tank towns.

One famous wrestler who was called to wrestle here stopped off in South Adams the night before and engaged in an affair for which only a handful of spectators buried out and for which he received the large sum of $15. News writers carried accounts of it but Tuohey's show here. Old George was holding. But he held his peace and said little. But when it came time to pay the champion off, Tuohey presented him with $15 the same sum the wrestler had received for the hippodrome the night before in North Adams.

"Why, surely if you would wrestle for $15 before a corporal's guard in North Adams," purred George, "you should be tickled to death to get the same money for appearing before this huge crowd in Boston."

After that wrestlers were careful to consult Tuohey about their out bookings before coming to Boston.

Oster Knocks Out Norman in First

Chicago, Dec 23 (AP)—Willie Oster, Boston light-heavyweight, knocked out Edgar Norman of Norway in the first round of their eight-round main bout at White City.

During the last minute of the round Oster cracked Norman on the jaw with a stiff right, dropping the Norwegian for an eight count. Another right sent him down for the full count. Oster weighed 196 pounds, and Norman scaled 212.

HALIFAX HAS STAR HEAVY ENTERED

By RINGSIDE

Halifax will be represented by Murray Ring, latest heavyweight sensation, in the international ring bouts at the Arena on December 29. Ring weighs close to the 200-pound mark and is touted highly by those persons who have seen him in action.

Members of the Boston Bruins and Ottawa hockey teams have been invited to watch Ring in action.

Ring, Jack McLeod, another heavyweight, will also come here with the Halifax team as will Tom Fox, a hard-hitting welterweight and Pierre Coulombe, a feather weight.

Neville Hicks, who is in charge of the Halifax team, engaged in several bouts with Eddie Shea in The latter will be on hand to meet his fighting rival.

Thirteen bouts will compete in each program. In addition to the Halifax bouts Eddie Shea will be teams from Boston, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and New York

Santa Has Won 11 Bouts in a Row

Joe Santa, Portuguese heavyweight who clashes with Roberto Roberts in a thirty-bout at an Arizona A. A. show at the New Boston Arena on the afternoon of New Year's Day, has won 11 bouts in a row. He gained nine of his victories by the knockout route and two by decisions.

Santa is the largest heavyweight in the world, weighing 260 pounds and landing six feet seven inches in height.

Roberts has never been defeated in a Eastern ring. He has scored six straight wins here and says he will upset in a draw of Santa

Another Golden Glove Show Saturday Night

The fourth of the Golden Glove bouts conducted by the staged at Mechanics Building Saturday night under the direction of the St. Joes T. A. Society. There will be contests at 112, 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds and in the light heavy weight division.

The finals will be staged at the Arena on January 5 after which Father Billy Cuddy will announce his selections for the international matches at the Boston Garden.

Weather Postpones Eaglets Ice Game

Boston College freshmen hockey team was unable to play its scheduled game with English high because of the poor condition of the ice. The game will be played at the earliest possible date.

COVETED SPORTS SOUVENIR

"C'MON, WHAT AM I OFFERED?" It's Santa Claus talking. Santa Claus auctioning off this great baseball souvenir of pictures and baseballs autographed by a flock of the greatest heroes of the game. Walter E. "Stonewall" Jackson, famous announcer at Fenway Park, has donated this most valuable souvenir to the Christmas Basket Fund. The money received for it will go to the fund. "C'mon," says Santa, "What am I offered."

Baseball "Greats" to Help Christmas Basket Fund

A baseball souvenir of a generation.

Another autographed by one of the most brilliant baseball aggregations of all time, the World's Champion Athletics.

A third signed by "Babe" Ruth and every other famous home run swatter now in the big leagues.

Pictures of those "old timer" who played in Boston in the wonderful Old Timers game last summer and signed the precious ball.

Pictures of those home run kings whose deeds have written their names forever in the litany of "ats."

Through the graciousness of Walter E. (Stonewall) Jackson, the announcer at Fenway Park, the Boston Evening American today is able to offer these combined souvenirs all attached to a large card, to the fans of New England.

For the benefit of the Christmas Basket Fund.

Famous Players Have Autographed Ball

Is there a fan who wouldn't like to have this collection in his home? That ball signed by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Hack Wilson, Wally Berger and the other great Bostonian artists? And that signed by Joe Wood, Jimmy Collins, Tris Speaker, Harry Hooper, Fred Tenney, Dave Shean, Bill Carrigan, Cy Young, Buck Freeman, Hugh Duffy and nearly two score more?

Or that signed by Simmons, Foxx, Cochrane, Grove and the other stars who sit upon the baseball thrones of the universe?

The sporting editor of the Boston Evening American offers this wonderful trophy for sale and the proceeds go to the Christmas Basket Fund. What fan is going to get it?

Babe Ruth Will Come Here Friday

Babe Ruth will visit Boston on Friday when he comes to the city for a miniature golf exhibition slated for the Winter Garden on Gallivan boulevard, Dorchester. Ruth is listed to play John P. Feeney.

CONNIE MACK 68 TODAY

Philadelphia, Dec 23 (AP)—Keep young with the future—do not follow in the past, was the substance of Connie Mack's message today, his 68th birthday.

As usual, the venerable manager of the world champion Athletics decided to go to his Tower office at Shibe Park for a short time, leaving after off-season baseball duties.

Friends told the veteran pilot that he looked splendid, to which he retorted "I feel that way." And when it was intimated that he might be getting ready to retire, he shot back: "Not on your life."

Asked his opinion of night baseball, Mack said he had never witnessed it and could not comment on its merits.

LOCAL SIX CAN GAIN THIRD PLACE IN CAN-AM LEAGUE BY WIN TONIGHT

By BILL GRIMES

In their fourth game of the season against Springfield tonight at the Boston Garden, the Tigers have a double incentive, to win third place in the race for the Can-Am championship and the honor of breaking the Indians long string of consecutive victories.

The Springfield Indians have been the sensation of the Can-Am circuit this season. The Redskins have walked through opponents at will, establishing a record of ten straight victories. They are also the leading scorers. Alfie Moore, the new goal minder, acquired from the Cleveland club of the International League, has only been beaten 19 times.

The Tigers played their best game of the season last Saturday against the Indians in Springfield. In fact, Manager Eddie Powers admitted that no Tiger outfit in the past ever gave such a thrilling exhibition as did Capt Mackey's boys in the last Springfield game.

Bill Grimes

Tigers in Fine Condition for Game

With the exception of Yip Foster, who is still bothered by a bad shoulder, the Tigers are in fine physical condition. Also, they feel that they have the ability to take the measure of Manager Frank Carroll's all-star aggregation.

Naturally, the loss of two such stars as Jack Beattie and Joe Jerwa has weakened the Indians. Beattie and Jerwa were too fast for any minor league outfit and eventually would have ruined the Can-Am championship race. Even without Beattie and Jerwa, Springfield is exceptionally strong and well balanced sextet.

Wilfred Starr, who broke his wrist playing in the charity game against the Bruins before the opening of the regular season, is at center ice for the Indians. Although Starr is not a Beattie he is a stand out and headed for the big show within a year or two.

Springfield Will Start Fast Forwards

Manager Carroll will start Cecil Dillon, who is the leading scorer of the league at present, and Obs Hexlmer, another sensational youngster, on the wings, with Starr at center. Dillon, Starr and Hexlmer, Springfield has one of the fastest and most effective forward lines in minor league hockey.

Springfield is carrying four spare forwards and one substitute defense man, to spare for either Patsey Callighen or Earl Seibert.

Although the Tigers have displayed a better scoring punch this season, they have not been winning with their usual regularity because of the weakness in the goal. Hal Winkler failed to deliver and his inability to save, especially on long rub shots, upset the morale of the entire club, with the result that the Tigers have only turned in four victories in thirteen games.

Frenchy LaCroix, the former B. A. A. and United States Olympic goalie, has succeeded Winkler and he has been giving a fine account of himself.

Although LaCroix had years of experience in amateur hockey, he has never been offered a real opportunity to display his wares in the professional game. He was given a short tryout with Les Canadiens, but he was never able to live up to his reputation as a Flying Frenchman.

Foster, rd	ld, Callighen or
LaCroix, g	g, Moore

Tigers, spares—McNeill, Connacher, Brander, Runge, Taylor.
Indian spares—Maracle, Heller, Benson, Grant, Saunders.

Tiger Stars Will Start in Front Line

Johnnie Loucks, Eddie Burke and Yank Boyd will start of the front line for the Tigers. Loucks, Burke and Boyd are all among the leading scorers and playing the best brand of hockey they have ever shown.

Bob Taylor, Paul Runge and Guy McNeill will be Eddie Powers' second line and the defense will be in the hands of Capt Reg Mackey, Yip Foster and Bill Brander. As Foster's shoulder has flared up again as a result of the heavy checking he dealt out against Philadelphia on Sunday night, Bill Brander will see plenty of service.

Although somewhat awkward, Brander is a good prospect and will come along under Manager Eddie Powers.

Chelsea Fives Win in Benefit Games

The Tech Champions of Chelsea High, comprising present and former members of the school, defeated the M. I. T. All-Stars, selected after the Technology basketball tournament last year, 24 to 12, in a benefit game played for the Christmas basket fund of Chelsea Council, K. of C., in the Chelsea high gym.

In a preliminary contest, Chelsea Y. amateur champions of the district last year, won from Revere Ramblers, the Hillis Athletic last season, by a score of 39 to 23. A crowd of close to 600, one of the biggest of the year, turned out for the basket fund games.

Kadiak Winner at New Orleans

New Orleans, La., Dec 23 (US)—Kadiak made a vigorous drive down the stretch in the Baytown purse, an allowance affair, that topped the card and checked across the judge's stand for first honors.

A half length back was Dress Ship, claiming place money, with Thomas Seth coming in for the show.

Ed George Victor Over Jack Wagner

Worcester, Dec. 23—Ed George, who recently defeated Gus Sonnenberg for the Pacific crown, showed his wares in Mechanics Hall against Jack Wagner. He took the first fall in 23 minutes and four seconds, using the Wolverine slam. He won the deciding fall in 13 minutes and 11 seconds with flying head scissors.

Mahaney Retained as Head Coach at Boston University

FACULTY IS VICTOR OVER ALUMNI

Boston University's faculty and student body won a victory over the alumni agitators when Dean Alexander Begg made a formal announcement that Hiram Mahaney would be retained at Boston University as head coach and that Alton K. Mathers would continue as his assistant.

For the past two months many former Boston University athletes, united in an alumni group, have been battling to revolutionize football at Boston University and give the uptown school a winning eleven at any cost.

Their first move was against the coaches, and they drew up a special petition with several grievances against both Hiram Mahaney and Al Mathers, and presented them to the president.

As a result of this petition, two fiery athletic council meetings were held, and this delay led several of the alumni members to believe that they had won the first step in their battle and that the council was spending its time trying to find a new coach.

Mahaney Re-Appointed After Careful Study

The athletic council played fair with the alumni and heard their case and then investigated every accusation they made. After all was discussed, Dean Begg and George V. Brown, athletic director at B. U., made the following statement:

"The athletic council announces that after a thorough study of the football situation extending over a period of two months that Hiram Mahaney has been appointed head coach and will be assisted by Al Mathers and a line coach who will be announced later."

This was the athletic council's polite answer to the charges of the alumni which proved to be groundless and showed that despite the fact that Boston University's record was one victory, one tie and six defeats, the president and the faculty were satisfied that conditions were such that a more impressive record was impossible regardless of whom the head coach might have been.

Mahaney's Work Has Always Been Excellent

Hiram Mahaney has been connected with Boston University for 8 years and in that time he has always done satisfactory work. For the years he was an end coach, and he was continually given guards, tackles, backs and ends to work on and develop into stars. He took whatever he was given and his work has always been of the highest calibre.

As proof we find that some of the best gridmen Boston University has produced in the last five years have been ends. Among these men were Ernie Tutten, who had never played football before; Jack Carnie, halfback all through high school and prep school; Bill Jeronis, a converted tackle; Maurey Pope, another green man, and several others.

As a tribute to his work Mahaney was given the job of head coach last fall. At the opening of the season he was informed that four of his veterans around whom he was planning on building his team were ineligible.

In addition Captain Marino had his ankle broken in mid-season; Stan Quina, veteran guard, had his back wrenched so badly that he was out half the season; Herb Senio could not play in half the games, and Phil Hootstein, his backfield ace, had a cracked rib and torn knee muscles.

These injuries, together with a schedule calling for games with West Point, Dartmouth, DePauw and Boston College, was what Mahaney faced.

Los Angeles Mecca of Football Teams

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 23 (INS)—Los Angeles today became the football metropolis of the nation, as three crack grid squads took the city by storm and a fourth was rapidly approaching.

Arriving within a few minutes of each other, the Notre Dame all-stars, University of North Dakota and the Washington State University steamed in to fill football engagements here within the next 40 days. Alabama is due today.

North Dakota will meet the Los Angeles fire department at the Coliseum in a Christmas day game. The sons of South Bend will play Coach Jimmy Phelan's West-South stars Saturday. Alabama, collegiate, wills the Washington State Cougars will defend sectional honors against Alabama New Years Day at the Rose Bowl.

Morenz Leads in Hockey Scoring

Montreal, Dec. 23 (INS)—Howie Morenz, center of last year's championship Les Canadiens, is today setting the scoring pace in actual goals scored but he is in a tie with Eddie Goodfellow, Detroit Falcon center, for points scored.

Harry Oliver, right wing of Boston, is only a point behind Goodfellow, having scored seven goals and seven assists.

TEACHER AND PUPIL AT WORK

JACK RYDER LEO LERMOND

LONG-LEGGED LEO LERMOND from Nahant is being caught in good time by his coach and finder, Jack Ryder, veteran mentor of Boston College and the B. A. A., in a practice spin at the Heights. Leo is going after the one-mile record this season. Coach Ryder says he has it in him. Leo is working hard for the coming winter meets.

Leo Lermond Enjoys His Trips Around the World

By BILL CONNELL

Many athletes, particularly professional baseball and hockey players, complain about their incessant jumping around the country, but Leo Lermond, great middle-distance runner of the Boston A. A., has found in sport a pleasant means of gratifying a lifelong ambition to see the world.

And track took Lermond beyond the conventional places which are visited by everyone, to strange spots where few world trotters ever touch, to the islands of the South Seas, to Australia and New Zealand. So judging from the experience of Lermond, any youngster with the desiring to roam all over the world would do well to take up track early and do his best to become a headline performer.

Practically no one, outside of his friends ever had heard of Lermond when in 1927, he stepped out against a fast field in the Fordham College games in New York and sprinted through the last three laps of the race to run his opponents off their feet in the fast time of nine minutes, 23 seconds.

Jack Ryder had made Lermond, in the weeks preceding that race, and his confidence in his protege was justified. To prove to some of the skeptical fans and track writers that he was no flash in the pan Lermond later won the national indoor two mile title, in 10:3 amazing time of nine minutes, 16 seconds.

Willie Goodwin was the only one to defeat Lermond in a major race of 1927, but Leo evened things the following year when he leped to victory over Goodwin and other fine runners. In 1928 Lermond made his great bid when he won the 5000 meters run in the Olympic tryouts. Leo came through in the Olympic games with a fourth place in the 5000 meters run.

Lermond Made Name in European Races

It took Willie Ritola and Paavo Nurmi of Finland and Edwin Wide of Sweden to conquer the Nahant racer Lermond's fourth place in the run was the best performance ever turned in by a U. S. runner in an Olympic games 5000 meter race.

Following the '28 world games, Lermond returned to the U. S. The next year he went back to Europe at the invitation of foreign amateur athletic associations with several other American athletes. A 1500-meter race at Stockholm, Sweden, was advertised as the "international 1500-meter world championship" race. Lermond won in 3 minutes, 52 seconds. Larva, Finnish star, trailed Lermond in the tape in that race to the astonishment of the foreign fans, who never believed that the American could beat the Olympic 1500-meter champion.

The following day Lermond rounded through the fastest 2000-meter race ever run by an American, winning in 8 minutes, 29 2-5 seconds, just a few seconds slower than Nurmi's world record.

After his return to the U. S. Lermond rested, but later in the year accepted an invitation to go to Australia and New Zealand to race. In the course of that long journey, which lasted from Dec. 12, 1929, until the spring of this year, Leo visited Australia and New Zealand.

Pro Game Cleaner, Says Joe Savoldi

Kansas City, Dec. 23 (AP)—"Jumping" Joe Savoldi, who was banished from the Notre Dame football team after his secret marriage was revealed, thinks professional football is cleaner than the game played by college teams.

He said so here today, enroute by plane to Los Angeles to play in a charity game Saturday.

"Professional football not only is smarter, it is cleaner," Savoldi said. "Anytime you are carrying that ball in a college game there are going to be two or three fists struck in your face. There's none of that in the professional game. They tackle you hard but clean."

Earl Sande Visits Parents in Oregon

Salem, Ore., Dec. 23 (INS)—Earl Sande, noted jockey, was here today to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sande.

Sande said he would return to New York immediately after the holidays to begin training for the 1931 season.

BUTLER PLAN IS SCORED

New York, Dec. 23 (AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's suggestion that all intercollegiate athletics be endowed by alumni to end the "importance of gate receipts" has brought forth a flood of comment, favorable and otherwise, from the country's college administrators and athletic officials.

A summary of a few of the comments on Dr. Butler's proposals follows:

FIELDING H. YOST, director of athletics, University of Michigan, saw "no possible value in the proposal."

ALONZO STAGG, director of athletics, University of Chicago, believes "athletics should be removed entirely from the influence of alumni bodies and administered as a regular department of the university."

PRES. ERNEST M. HOPKINS, Dartmouth, thought the proposal worth consideration, but he doubted that alumni endowment was the proper remedy to curb over-emphasis.

GLENN S. (POP) WARNER, Stanford coach, said: "A lot of funny things are suggested. I don't think Dr. Butler's suggestion merits any comment."

W. A. ALEXANDER, Georgia Tech coach, said Georgia Tech would have to abandon all sports now if it had to depend upon alumni.

MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

Prince music was being [illegible] by a radio as Mr. [illegible] into Winthrop [illegible]

"Sounds like spring anyway," remarked the veteran, looking at the snow.

"I just dropped in at the Boston Garden and found Abe Mc[illegible]lean busy making matches for next year, despite the fact the next match [illegible] on January 1. Yes, [illegible] soldier is Mike Mann of exceptional character who [illegible] on carrying on until the job is completed.

"Mike has Mc[illegible]lean and Rosdeno [illegible] for a return bout. He has also been working on a Mahoney-Baer bout and a Mahoney-Paulino tussle. Three good matches for Mahoney, [illegible].

Mr. Boston

"I found Billy Ames on the job at a typewriter. Ames just returned from New York and is working hand-and-hand with Wes Bills will take over the skipper's job the first of the year.

"Fred Ibee, famous radio announcer and former sports writer will take over the publicity job at the Garden. Fred is assistant [illegible] to get to John O'Brien [illegible] more job will merely [illegible] a little more kick out of it.

Ed George Now Has $10,000 Diamond Belt

"Met Ed George, world's heavyweight wrestling champion made a visit of his victory over Gus Sonnenberg, at Paul Bowser's office. The new champ was dolled up in his new $10,000 diamond belt which he lifted when he tossed Sonnenberg.

"Soldier Nosiak took a peek at George, and admitted that Ed is quite a wrestler. George ticked off a few matches in Chicago and A. A. U. circles before he entered the pro ranks. He knows what wrestling is all about.

"Jim Barbank, capable referee, followed Stasiak despite the fact the Ump has been suspended in Connecticut for foul tactics which would be termed mere horseplay anywhere else. Connecticut must want ladies like sports. I still like my wrestling and boxing as rough as possible.

Baer Is Puncher, Says Buckley

"Tom Burkley, who knows a bit about ear, tells me Max Baer is one of the best two-handed punchers in the heavyweight class. Tom also added that good as Baer is he is not half as great a boxer as Jack Sharkey or Young Stribling. Baer will be out a month before the injuries he received in the 2nd bout.

"The New York Garden wants to get Jack Sharkey and Baer on the same card covering different [illegible] and later rematch them.

"If Baer tells me Jake Zeraganbs will be in the best shape of his career when he clashes with Johnny Risko in a 10-round go at the Arena on the afternoon of New Year's Day. Jake received a close decision on Risko in the bout which moved him [illegible] for the show, as Zeraganbs and Risko both hail from the Show Town.

"I found Al Delmont, old time ring hero, getting ready to feed [illegible] on Christmas day. Al sure is showing the right hand of a Christmas spirit.

"Edward C. Foster, chairman of the Rhode Island Boxing Commission, has got out one of the most novel Christmas cards. Foster has ideas and ability.

"Talk Mayor Curley into letting Robert[illegible] and Jose Santa will pack the crowd in at the Arena on the afternoon of New Year's Day. Which will be getting off to a flying start.

"Hurry up on your Christmas shopping. And don't forget the youngsters, the aged and the needy. Then you will have real cause to celebrate on Christmas Day."

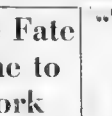
Give Fate Time to Work

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

BEATRICE FAIRFAX will gladly answer questions regarding heart and home problems. Address her in care of the Boston American. If you wish a personal reply, inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope. Otherwise, queries of interest will be answered in these daily columns.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

There a [illegible] I am very much [illegible] I [illegible] It's funny I always [illegible] the same street car her going home. Would you please find a way I could get talking to her? I am infatuated with her and have all ways on my mind. I'd appreciate your opinion of the whole thing. She lives near me and I never had an opportunity to meet her other than in the street car.



Beatrice Fairfax

LONE STAR.

Dear Lone Star: There is no way of meeting the young lady unless through some dispensation of fate which might conceivably make it correct to do the unconventional thing [illegible] taining. And, [illegible] speaking, so not on the street car. If she is the sort of girl you think you would like to know You had better wait a while and trust in the special gods that serve all lovers.

All the Family Dance

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

Our family (mother, dad and I) always go to an old-fashioned dance every few weeks. We went two weeks ago, and I met a young fellow. He danced with me almost every dance and I guess he likes me. Could you please tell me how I could get better acquainted with him? He gave me his name and address. Would writing to him be O. K.?

"BABE."

Dear Babe—What a sensible family you must belong to, my dear Babe, where the entire family goes together to enjoy dancing. I suppose the admiring young man must have met either mother or dad, in which case it makes the business of inviting him to your home easier. Just write him a friendly little note and say you'd be glad to have him call.

He Gambles a Little

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 16 years old and a junior in high school. I'm very much in love with a young foreigner, and I think he returns my love. My mother doesn't approve of him, because he is of different nationality. I really do care for him, and though he goes around with other girls and gambles a little, it still doesn't change my love for him. I have a few other boys going with me, but I can't seem to get interested in them.

ANXIOUS HELEN

Dear Helen: I feel sure your mother's objections to the young man are on the score of his gambling rather than his nationality. And she has every reason to object and fear for your future. When the vice of gambling once gets into the blood, it's almost impossible to destroy it. At sixteen you have the whole world before you—don't make any false steps if you can help yourself. What are you thinking of taking up after you graduate from high school? The better your equipment the better your position in life

FATHER CHRISTMAS, behind the great pot from whose gold, silver, copper and paper he hopes will come enough by Christmas to make all the needy happy, lifts his voice all over the land and sings out, "Come on and be Santa Claus. Anybody can be! Everybody can be. And find out what fun it is to be one. If you yearn for a thrill hereo one. Your heart will swell, your eyes will leap, you will smile in spite of yourself; you'll step briskly, life will be as good as bread and as tingley as champagn. I'm a big fat fellow, and I've gotten away with a heap of giving for winters as many as the very flakes that come with it, but this year I'm not big enough, and I need help."

And though neither one looks a bit like a Santa Claus, two different aides of life are hustling for the honor of masquerading as the good old Saint whose fame is for giving. Better Textile Year Is Hood's Forecast

"The cotton industry must adopt a shorter work week if it is to prosper. This is an age of mechanization, of constant improvement in machinery and efficiency and of great overproduction. The solution of the problem as far as textiles are concerned is a universal 48 hour week," declared Ernest N. Hood, treasurer of Pequot Mills, in a statement issued today in connection with a meeting of the board of directors.

Ernest N. Hood

"I think 1931 will be much better than 1930," he said, in discussing the prospects for the new year. "Yet so long as there remains a large over-capacity to produce I fear there will be a more or less constant condition of unprofitableness in our industry. There will be of course ups and downs, but the conditions will not be right for continued prosperity.

"But the industry as a whole will finally emerge from the long period of depression a going concern and with many of its units better equipped, better financed and better managed than before. Other units will not survive. While this is hard on many people the industry will be benefited as the merchandising methods these 'weak sisters' are obliged to employ have been a great handicap to all."

"This age of mechanization, as it has been handled, has helped virtually no one except that perhaps the consumer has benefited to some extent. Yet the progress of mechanization and industrial development cannot be stopped nor should it be. It does need to be controlled for the benefit of all concerned.

"How can we take advantage of this great industrial advance? The logical answer is that if with the aid of machinery the needs of the world can be supplied with a shorter work week, the hours of labor should be reduced.

"In the textile industry a universal 46-hour week would produce all of the goods required. With production and consumption balanced it would be possible for prices to reach a figure to insure profitable operation. Such a schedule of labor would give full employment to more and place mills again on a profitable basis. Massachusetts has led the way in progressive legislation. It has enacted laws which have resulted in a 48-hour week in its textile mills. Unfortunately the result has been the loss of many of its mills. The Massachusetts Industrial Commission in its recent report expressed the views of many, if not all of the manufacturers, in urging the state legislature to pass as new laws further restricting the cotton mills, to take such action as may help secure a national 44-hour law and to consider means to reduce tax burdens on its manufacturing plants."

RAILS IN LEAD OF MARKET'S RALLYING

New York, Dec. 23—The stock market threw off its secondary relapse today and again pointed upward, with railroad issues providing most of the motive power.

Closing prices were in the main one to four points higher, although a few shares were of a point or two. Pivotal shares mostly showed narrow changes.

Yesterday's selling movement was carried over into the first hour, but it soon abated and thereafter the list made fair recovery, despite an interruption in the late afternoon.

SALES ARE 2,400,000.

Rails spurted up in the final dealings. Total sales were about 2,400,000 shares. Wall Street virtually laid no attention to the suspension of a small uptown bank, as its total resources, by comparison, amounted to less than 1 per cent of those of the city's largest institution and it was neither a Federal reserve or clearing house member.

Atchison gained 5 points, New York Central 4, Allied Chemical and Lehigh Valley gained 2 or more. Consolidated Gas and National Biscuit gained a point.

U. S. Steel and Westinghouse were up fractionally. General Electric and North American showed steady to the finish. Woolworth, Public Service of N. J., Stone & Webster, Corn Products and Texas lost a point or so and Case 2.

Preliminary reports of the volume of holiday trade indicate the best to scattering to be particularly conclusive, but several department stores have experienced brisk volume buying of the season at the start. To this end, and over the week-end wholesalers received several rush orders of a fill-in character.

Many organizations expect their volume will come within at least striking distance of last year or better.

HOLIDAY EFFECTS

Heavy industry is coming under the influence of the holiday and year-end inventory period. The Ford Motor Company has virtually shut down until January 5 and steel mill operations are slackening.

"Iron Age," publishing its weekly review of the iron and steel industry a day early, said that ingot output had declined from 38 to 35 per cent of capacity, and might get down to 25 per cent during the year-end shut-down.

This has been expected, however, and the trader is more interested in bookings for January, which have appeared in such volume as to mark a fair acceleration of activity practically assured.

"Iron Age" says one producer has experienced a gain of 20 per cent in orders this month, over November. Railroads are in the market for equipment requirements. Pennsylvania is planning to order 250,000 tons of rails, and to take an option of 50,000 tons more, and New York Central will soon distribute orders for 170,000 tons.

An foreshadowed by yesterday's developments in copper, the Copper Export Association raised its price from 11.90 to 10.35 cents a pound, c. i. f. European base ports, and foreign sales continued in fair volume, approximating 4,000,000 tons this morning.

The petroleum situation failed to brighten. Standard of New York cutting gasoline prices.

Call money was fairly firm at 2 per cent, but was not expected to exceed that figure. The government overdraft in connection with its quarterly financing has now been sharply reduced, taking substantial sums out of the market. Furthermore, holiday currency demands and other year-end requirements are now being felt.

Bond Buying Off as Holiday Nears

New York, Dec. 23—As was natural with Christmas nearing, the strong buying demand that has bolstered bond prices appeared today to have partially subsided. A small section of the list continued in advance, but most of the transactions were at concessions from the previous closing prices.

Wheat Unsettled in Chicago Market

Chicago, Dec. 23—Wheat today closed unsettled, ⅞-7 cents a bushel higher than yesterday. Corn was 1-1 cent down, oats unchanged to ⅛ cent off, and provisions unchanged to 25 cents decline.

Cotton Steady in New York Market

New York, Dec. 23—Cotton futures today closed steady, 3 to 7 lower. Dec. 9.64; Jan. 9.64; spot contracts. Dec. 9.64-65; Jan. 9.62-64; March. 9.90-92; May 10.18; July 10.41-43; Oct. 10.59-61; spot quiet, middling 9.580.

The Weather

For Boston and vicinity—Probably snow this afternoon, ending tonight; slightly colder tonight; not much change in temperature tomorrow; fresh northeast and east winds, becoming moderate Wednesday.

For New England—Snow or rain and colder tonight; Wednesday snow, rain or sleet in southern portion, probably clearing and colder in northern portion; fresh northeast winds, becoming moderate tonight and diminishing on Wednesday.

Weather forecasts for England—Rain tonight and probably Wednesday morning; fresh southerly winds, becoming southwesterly and northerly tonight; northerly winds this afternoon and tonight, shifting to northwest and west on Wednesday and diminishing.

CURB MARKET MEETS WITH SUPPORT

New York, Dec. 23—The curb market was irregular today, but the trend was downward during much of the session. Fairly active early selling encountered considerable support after generally small losses had been recorded, although trading tended to slacken on the intermittent rallies that followed in the later trading.

Port of Boston News

By JAMES J. DELANEY

Washington sentiment indicates that necessary appropriations to start work promptly on the improvement of the Boston Harbor and Cape Cod Canal channel will be given approval of Congress as soon as the report of the district engineer is approved by the War Department board of engineers.

This was the statement of Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, made in commenting on the announcement from Washington of the $750,000 appropriation for Massachusetts harbor improvements in which substantial amounts are alloted to New Bedford, Lynn and Fall River harbors.

Appreciation for the part the New England delegation in Washington played in getting the appropriation was expressed by Mr. Davis.

Reason for the $750,000 appropriation was because these projects had been approved by Congress, he stated.

CARGO SAFE

Boston cargo in the holds of the S. S. Paul Luckenbach, en route here from Pacific ports, which was endangered by fire in lumber in No. 1 hold, while lying in Brooklyn, N. Y., discharging cargo, suffered little damage. She will leave New York today and is expected here tomorrow.

HOME AGAIN

Returning home from Europe for the Christmas holidays the S. S. Paris, French Line, brought Henry E. Worcester, vice-president of the United Fruit Co., and Mrs. Worcester of Boston, yesterday, from Havre and Plymouth. The S. S. Olympia, White Star Line, which is due today, has on board Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Kammler of Boston.

ANNUAL INSPECTION

Inspection of immigration service in this area is being conducted by Irving F. Wixon, chief supervisor of the immigration service, Department of Labor, Washington, who spent yesterday at the immigration station at East Boston in conference with officials. Mr. Wixon was acting immigration commissioner here in 1921.

FOREIGN FREIGHTERS

Cargo carriers from foreign ports arrived here yesterday. The S. S. City of Oran came from Calcutta, Columbo and Aden with a cargo of gunnies, arrocos and plumbago. The S. S. Norman brought raw sugar from Cuba. She had two New England passengers, Dolores Artesian of Arlington and William W. Pollard of Attleboro. John P. Perry of Reno, Nev., was also on board. The S. S. Exira, American Export Lines, came with cargo from eight Mediterranean ports. The tanker Frederic Ewing arrived with crude oil from the Danish West Indies.

CHRISTMAS AT SEA

Bostonians who have availed themselves of the cruise arranged for the M. S. Kungsholm, Swedish American line, now on the high seas, are Mr. and Mrs. J. Dimond, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Grosberg, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wrighton, Mr. and Mrs. S. Partridge, T. Felberg and Joseph Zukerman. She will call at Porto Rico, Venezuela Curacao, Panama, Jamaica and Havana. New Year's eve and New Year's day will be passed in Havana.

For True Temperance

President Hopkins Uses Powerful Arguments

President Ernest Martin Hopkins of Dartmouth College is a distinguished educator, an admirable character and a thoughtful and conservative man not given to hyperbole or promiscuous exaggeration.

And when he says that prohibition is an utter and dismal failure because it has discouraged true temperance and promoted an underworld empire of vice, crime and corruption, his observations and his conviction ought to weigh heavily among that steadily diminishing group of altruists who have held to prohibition with a vain hope of its success.

For ten years President Hopkins held his peace.

He believed that the sumptuary legislation designed to establish the morals and conduct of men was vicious in principle.

But he was willing that prohibition should be given its chance to accomplish the result for good that the whole history of sumptuary legislation had failed to achieve, and he was anxious that no word of his would encourage its failure.

President Hopkins now declares he is fully convinced by ten years of impartial and hopeful observation that prohibition, instead of developing temperance, has actually promoted intemperance in its place.

In his travels about the country he has seen sections once voluntarily dry or temperate now "saturated with liquor."

He has seen an utter abandon by the people of any desire to regulate the illegal liquor traffic and he fears that the collapse of respect for law may possibly have precluded even any sensible movement for temperance that could now be installed.

He has seen bureaucracy, with malice in its heart, corrupt money in its pocket and a shotgun in its hand, seize the throat of government.

He says that a notably baneful achievement of prohibition has been the creation of an underworld empire, subsidized with hundreds of millions of dollars for corruption by the money which a regulated traffic would have paid to the government in taxes and excises.

He says, quite accurately, that the denizens of the new underworld have amplified their opportunity for corruption of government through the swollen profits of the cheap and dangerous liquor which undermines the health of the public while providing additional funds for the debasement of public officials.

President Hopkins says the single accomplishment of prohibition may have been the increase of industrial efficiency.

But that is the province of capital and labor, he infers, and the former must not rely upon unprincipled legislation, with all its evils against government and the moral degrading of society, to accelerate the efficiency of the workingman. The countervailing offsets of disgust with government, disrespect of law and general corruption are too great a price to pay.

President Hopkins' fear that the dismal situation has gone too far to permit of sensible and progressive amendment is too pessimistic, we hope and believe.

It should have the effect of arousing the true friends of temperance not only to the necessity of a change but of a change that will not be dictated by the fanatics on either side.

The people of America have demonstrated throughout the past an unusual ability to bring order out of chaos.

They should unite now, before it is too late, as President Hopkins fears, to establish a new system of government control which would banish outlawry, prevent the return of the saloon and enable useful, stimulating beverages to be secured for the health and contentment of all.

We Get 1-2 of 1 Per Cent

New England's Share in U. S. Fund

New England is to receive about $735,000 out of the $116,000,000 emergency relief fund proposed by the Administration and adopted by Congress.

It is the equivalent of about one-half of one per cent, a figure which seems to be synonymous with Congress.

Compared with the population, the prestige and the amounts which New England contributes to the national treasury in taxes, it is woefully small.

But it will contribute that much anyway to the stimulation of business and relief of unemployment, and New England should accept it on the theory that half a loaf is better than none. And she should then ask for and insist upon more, when the deficiency appropriation bill comes along after the holidays.

When New England Congressmen return to their homes for the Christmas recess, their constituents should demand to know from them what has become of the influence that New England's elder statesmen once exerted in Congress and through the White House.

Do what you can, and, especially, be generous in your own family.

A child's belief in Santa Claus, its happiness on Christmas morning is, to his spirit, as important as food to his body.

Make this a good Christmas, to the utmost of your ability. These two personages may be mythical, but they are REAL today.

Listen, World! -:- Cowards

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Living Unborn Lives

ARE YOU born yet?

No, that isn't a ridiculous question. Your body has been born, of course—you've had a physical birthday. But have YOU—the thinking, feeling, YOU, for whom your body is but a house — have YOU been born yet? Has your MIND been born into this world? Has your HEART found its place in the human program? Or are you still lying locked in a strange, dim world of your own—a narrow, padded, infantile world that has no relationship to the vast, free world of reality?

Elsie Robinson

All around you can see people who are living like that—people who are LIVING UNBORN LIVES. They eat, they sleep, they move about—in a sense, they work and play. We've apt phrases for their condition. We say they're "only half there" . . . that they "don't click" . . . "don't know what it's all about."

They COULD know what it's all about. They aren't feeble-minded or incapable of emotion. They have brains to learn with, hearts to feel with. But they've never been wholly born. They've never emerged from an infantile stage—never taken their places in adult life.

People like that look mature. You think they are mature. But they are constantly surprising and disappointing you by acting like babies—because their undeveloped natures still ARE babies. They are usuallly afraid to go to new places, take new jobs, risk unusual situations. They call this being conservative. Actually, it is cowardice. They cling to accustomed conditions as a child clings to its mother's hand.

Also, they lack a sense of proportion. Being children, they see life as a child sees it, with themselves in the centre of every picture. They cannot realize that human experience is all of a piece. The things that happen to them are of paramount importance. They magnify their pains, and make a great virtue of their sensitiveness.

And always these Unhatched Eggs are trying to evade reality and escape from life. Some of them escape in booze—some in drugs—some in fanaticism—some in day dreams—some in eccentric ideas which gradually develop into insanity. Insane people are frequently people who have become so terrified at life that they refuse to grow up and are taking refuge in the fantasies of childhood. Some lunatics, as they sit brooding, actually take the attitude of unborn children, knees hunched under the chin, arms wrapped about the knees.

Birth, we think, is the commonest experience. We are sure it must come to everyone. Yet 100 per cent birth is extremely rare. It is doubtful, in fact, is anyone is ever entirely born. We all have baby streaks. Sometimes we want to have those streaks—and stubbornly retain them. Sometimes our parents force them upon us. Many a doting mother keeps her child HALF BORN all her life, refusing to sever the cord that binds its spirit to her, glorying in its dependence upon her.

ARE YOU BORN YET? IF SO, HOW MUCH? Answer that question, any maybe you'll be surprised.

Nature of Universe

By ARCHBALD HENDERSON, Ph.D.

ONE OF the Greek philosophers, who saw in the heavens the handiwork of God and in the operations of natural law the workings of the Divine Mind, once aphoristically said, "God geometrizes continually."

A modern philosopher, like Havelock Ellis, sees existence as an esthetic rhythm, a terpsichorean fantasy; and entitles one of his books "The Dance of Life." In one of his familiar poems, Kipling thinks of God as a supreme artist, and the universe as an artistic masterpiece still in the process of creation. Bernard Shaw realizes God as a struggling, aspiring Life Force, driving ever resistlessly forward toward Godhood.

The exponents of the higher science of today no longer claim to have arrived at a final, unchangeable explanation of the universe. It is no longer possible to express nature's laws in simple language.

The deeper we penetrate into matter, the more complicated, the more inexplicable it becomes. An atom is not a simple structure; it is perhaps the most complex of all structures. If we knew just what an atom was, we might perhaps reconstruct the universe.

The universe is governed by mathematical and physical laws. The scientist of today is baffled in his effort to visualize a clear picture of the phenomena. Scientists are beginning to realize the futility of attempting to find a model for every phenomenon.

Russell, Jeans, Langmiur for example, all agree that the making of models to explain mathematical formulas and the phenomena they describe, is not a step towards, but a step away from reality. As Jeans puts the matter, "It is like making graven images of a spirit. The physicist in the laboratory cannot show us an electron: he can only tell us how the electrons behave."

This new view of contemporary science, especially in the fields of mathematical, physical and astronomical science, is happily described by Sir James Jeans in his fascinating new book, The Mysterious Universe. In this he says, "Our remote ancestors tried to interpret nature in terms of anthropomorphic concepts of their own creation and failed."

The efforts of our nearest ancestors to interpret nature on engineering lines proved equally inadequate. Nature has refused to accommodate herself to either of these man-made moulds. On the other hand, our efforts to interpet nature in terms of the concepts of pure mathematics have, so far, proved brilliantly successful. It would now seem to be beyond dispute that in some way nature is more closely allied to the concepts of pure mathematics than to those of biology or of engineering, and if the mathematical interpretation is only a third man-made mould, it at least fits nature incomparably better than the two previously tried.

Royal Tight-Rope Walker

He May End Up in Hollywood

ALFONSO, KING OF SPAIN (AT THIS WRITING)

As this is written King Alfonso is still on his throne, justifying again his title of the world's greatest royal tightrope walker.

He has arranged, however, to leave Spain quickly if he slips. Probably he will go to England, where his wife was born, or perhaps to Florida, where he owns a home.

If he comes here he would also visit California, which, like Florida, once belonged to his ancestors and where he could make a living in the movies. Being a good king, he is a good actor. Moreover, he has been bombed or shot at eight times since boyhood and might find Hollywood more restful than Madrid.

Spain, which tried unsuccessfully years ago to be a republic, has been fairly happy under Alfonso. He kept his country out of the war, advertised its attractions, boomed the tourist traffic, did other useful things. His worst mistake was in permitting himself to go to war with the Riffs in Morocco. They made mincemeat out of his soldiers and monkeys out of his generals. They also cost Spain millions of pesetas, which Spain could not afford.

The world-wide business slump has affected Spain since, and, as always happens in a depression, the cry has gone up for a change of government. That explains the latest Spanish crisis as well as anything else.

Spain may play with a republic as she has played with a dictatorship. Getting rid of Alfonso, however, will not help much. In fact, in a country where the majority of people can neither read nor write nothing will help but education, and that takes time.

Four per cent of our own adults are illiterate and at least 20 per cent are barely educated. It is these that cause most of our troubles.

Spain will have many more revolutions until each child is educated. Meanwhile an intelligent and able king is probably better than a political and therefore a partisan president.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay late and talked over the phone to Winnie Sheehan, in town from Hollywood, and he tells me Will Rogers has become foremost of the talkie stars. And yet his success as a silent screen comedian was not so conspicuous, the lucky stiff.

So to a breakfast of chitlins sent from North Carolina and a he-gossip fluttered in with tales of a great novelist and his sundry amours which interested me not at all, my fancy at the moment being solely chitlins. Then fashioning a piece for a movie magazine.

Vincent Lopez, the band man, to dinner and happy to wear a business suit, the most of his evenings being spent in starched shirts and what Park ave. calls "tails." And the late Will Hogg's Homer cooking a chili so fiery we broke into a heavy sweat. So all night gulping ice water.

Around 7th and 8th aves., below the Pennsylvania terminal, is the fur district, perhaps the most concentrated business in New York. In this area, between 27th and 28th st., are 2000 firms—dealers, dyers, manufacturers. Next to Liepzig, New York is the world's biggest fur center.

A fur dealer is often the shrewdest of traders. Many are scrupulously honest but many more are rascals. There is no business where gullible are so easily taken into camp. Furs, costing $25, can be flossed up to fool any layman. Every fur can be expertly counterfeited. It is a good advice for fur buyers always to patronize the reputable establishment.

The oldest fur trick still flourishes on shadowy streets after nightfall. Men in overalls stand in doorways of wholesale districts, posing as truckmen. They furtively reveal a fur, intimating it was stolen. Take it quick for $15! It can be bought wholesale for $2. Such salesmen often average $200 a week profits.

High in buildings in the fur district are swanky show rooms suggesting the elegance of the salons of the Paris couturieres. Pirouetting models, swatted in the wealth of the Arctic, strut and twirl before plump middle-west buyers. I saw one tired manikin enjoying the temporary luxury of a sable coat, priced at just 1000 times her weekly wage. Not in this decade have furs suffered such slashing reductions as this winter.

In smaller shops, windows and show cases are mountainous high with raw and finished skins. Walls are hung with pelts from far flung corners of the globe. Sables from Siberia, chinchillas from Bolivia, caracals from India and red foxes from Labrador. Bespectacled gentlemen barter and trade, running nimble fingers through dark Canadian prairie, short crop skunks, etc. Their fingers are attuned to the "feel"—they recognize fur values by touch.

Following a tramp through the fur district I opened the door of a taxi awaiting a shift of fares. In the corner was a codger in pajamas, heavy bathrobe and with silk hat askew, slumping in sound slumber. "The old bird is sleeping off a lulu," explained the driver, and shot away. New York!

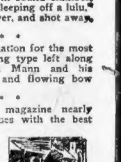
An important magazine nearly reached the presses with the best description of the year. In referring to one of those omnipresent society crashers — the kind seen everywhere but who cannot make the grade — he was called: "The 400's One-Eye Connelly."



A cafe near Broadway in West 44th st. is the meeting place of gangsters and their chorus girls. One evening with a millionaire, next with a gangster and after that—a roll of the drums, professor —the shake-down.

From F. T. E., Chicago:

"I read your column the other morning under a New York dateline and 20 minutes later I saw you on Michigan boulevard, pearl hat and all. How come?"
